Moline Public Library

We, the staff of 1962, dedicate the fiftieth volume of the "M" to the many staffs who have come before us. To these people who have devoted their efforts to the yearbook, youth, Moline, peace, and time; we owe thanks for a tradition which we honor in its fiftieth year, the . . .

The River flows

swiftly, constantly . . . Time, its companion . . .

Through fifty years, the "M" has watched the fun and life of Moline, MHS. In the fall of 1912, as the school halls once again rang with laughter, a yearbook rose from a senior class meeting; and, since then, the book has grown—with the student body and the school. In 1914, an addition was made to the old school whose rooms and corridors were no longer large enough for the students; the old, time-honored structure remained with the new beside it; and life flowed on.

From the stately rooms of Allendale, able administrators continued to guide the education program; while students moved through MHS doors to see the world, the old bricks of Sixteenth Street, the manual arts building, and Moline's business area.

Lasting friends were made . . . friends parted. Some went to college; some, to work; some, to war.

College-bound, numerous '46 graduates returned to the same beloved halls and rooms which, for them, were under a new name—Moline Community College. Friends met joyfully and soldiers returned; MCC, sharing the high school facilities, served the community needs.

In the blistering heat of summer, 1958, as a massive, new, blue and blond building grew out of steel girders, glass, and bricks; the old and crumbling annex was swept over by need and safety-conscious Moliners, leaving seventy years of life in rubble. Soon, it was cleared; and the space, once the spirit of MHS, was put to a modern use.

September, 1958, saw the "M" leave the old, memory-filled building; the college took over and enlarged its curriculum to serve more students—both young and old. At last, it was time for the sprawling new structure to become the home of 1700 students; they and their teachers moved somewhat hesitantly into the spacious and unfamiliar halls still filled with the varied odors of newness. Shining new plastic desks, multi-colored classrooms, and new and important traditions became a part of MHS. Presenting this awesome building and its students to the community, the publications recorded Moline's drama, music, athletics, curriculum, and clubs as they grew and enjoyed the modern facilities.

Planning for the future, Moline and her neighbors voted in December, 1961; and the old building, deserted by MHS youth, won a new name—Blackhawk Junior College, which promises to serve the vast Mississippi Valley.

After a half century of sweeping changes and successes, the "M" has evolved for the fiftieth time to show again the story of MHS . . .

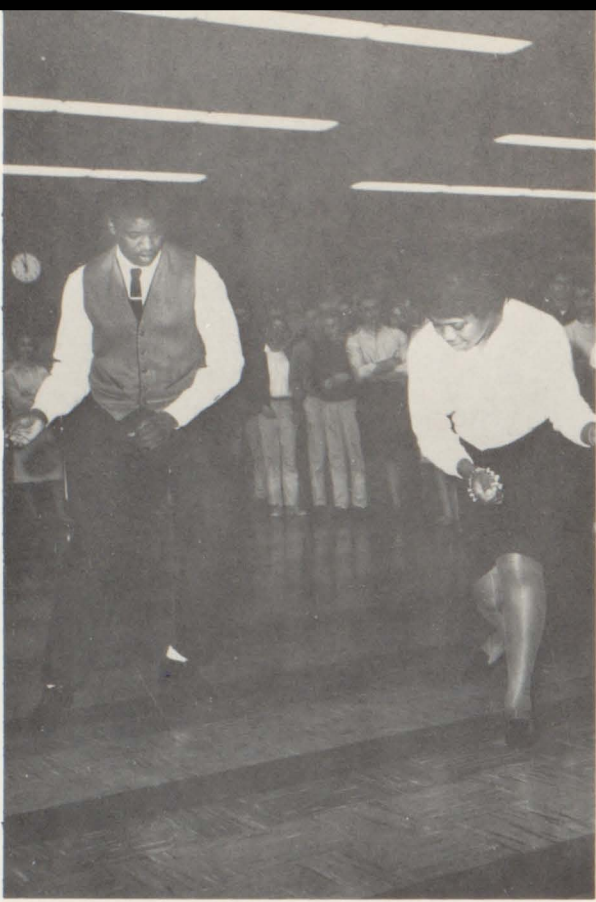

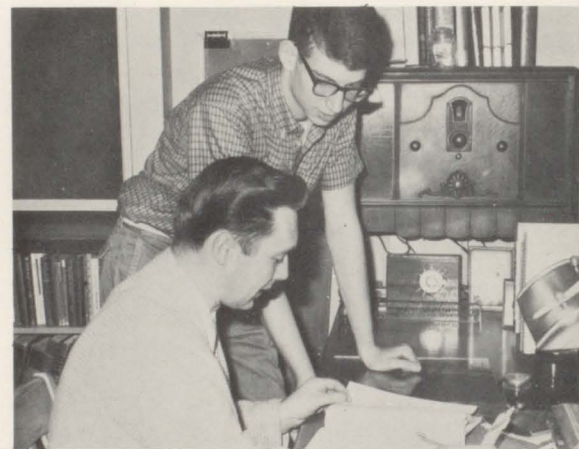

This is our home

for three years: beautiful . . . awesome

Impressions of Fifty Golden Years of

Impressions made by outstanding teachers early in the history of the "M" have deepened with the years, as today's students benefit from their wisdom and many years of experience.

As the staff in 1913 pioneered in publishing the first "M," Julia E. Gettemy, then head of the English department, advised and assisted them in every way possible. Greatly responsible for the success of the first book, she is honored today through the annual senior award for creative writing.

Also working with the early staffs was Edwin P. Nutting, MHS principal from 1905 to 1931. Loved by all students and faculty, he directed his energies and talents to developing fine tradition and character at Moline High. Following Miss Gettemy, Ella M. Cockrell joined the faculty as English department head and carried on faithfully in working with both the "M" and Line O' Type staffs. Since she left MHS in 1950, the Imp has recognized her through its Ella M. Cockrell prose and poetry awards. In 1923 another of Moline's prominent teachers, Dolph Lain, came to MHS and served for twenty-three years in a variety of capacities ranging from principal and "M" adviser to coach for the Fellowship Minstrel.

George F. Senneff, arriving at MHS in 1920, guided Moline's athletic fortunes for many years as head coach in football, basketball, and track. Following his death in 1954, the new MHS swimming pool was named in his honor. Assisting Mr. Senneff throughout much of his career was C. W. Holmgren, athletic manager and assistant coach. Retired now from his high school responsibilities, Mr. Holmgren remembers well the days in 1928 when students sold bonds for money to build the Wharton Field House. After the completion of this project, he served faithfully for thirty-three years as field house manager.

Barbara Garst, an MHS graduate, returned in 1924 as an English teacher and worked devotedly with drama, debate, and the publications, helping always to strengthen and perpetuate the spirit of MHS. Sharing her wealth of knowledge with students, she continues to channel senior minds in the realms of English literature; while counseling sophomore girls.

Despite years of change, the influence of these teachers has taken hold in MHS life; as mere mention of their names awakens vivid memories of the past.

In fulfilling his numerous duties, Dr. Davis finds the dictaphone an essential piece of office equipment.

With a warm friendly greeting and a welcoming smile, Dr. Dwight M. Davis greets all who come to him.

Now serving his seventh year as the superintendent of Moline schools, Dr. Davis tirelessly performs his many duties and continually takes an active interest in all branches of school life. His major tasks concern presiding over Board meetings, working with school personnel, preparing the school budget, and recommending plans to the School Board for the improvement of the educational system.

Sharing Dr. Davis' interest in the welfare of the school system is the Board of Education which meets once a month at Allendale, the educational administration building. Establishing and setting up the policies of the school is their responsibility.

From their periodic visits to the schools, the Board of Supervisors offer helpful suggestions at their monthly meetings during the school year.

Administration Guides Ever-Widening

Members of the supervisory staff are FRONT ROW: Marie Ringquist, art education; Roberta Wallerman, audio-visual education; Philip Mahoney, special services. BACK ROW: Ray Smith, physical education, health and safety; Marlin Baxter, director of elementary education; and Frederick Swanson, music.

Lamont Hultgren finds each day filled with new and challenging tasks as he serves his sixth year as Moline High School principal.

Under him, from 8 a.m. to 3:20 p.m., 1,900 students and faculty operated, for the first time, on a seven-period day. With the trial of this new system, Mr. Hultgren and the class counselors were often faced with unexpected problems.

Meeting with school personnel, arranging assemblies, and organizing the monthly calendars are a few of Mr. Hultgren's many jobs. As the year progresses, numerous events branch out and succeed in filling his daily schedule. Handling these various tasks involved in directing MHS, Mr. Hultgren continues to win the respect of all students and faculty.

Individual questions and problems of students are channeled into the offices of the respective class counselors. Planning daily schedules, returning aptitude test scores, and guiding students in future plans, the counselors assist Mr. Hultgren in supervising the many aspects of MHS life.

To keep in close contact with interested parents, Mr. Hultgren finds the telephone a daily necessity.

Branches of MHS

Adjusting countless numbers of class schedules is one task of Jay Schaff, MHS assistant principal.

This year program cards were again run through IBM by way of Mr. Schaff's office, but grade reports were marked personally by each class room teacher. In addition to this responsibility, he helps Mr. Hultgren and the office personnel in overseeing the smooth functioning of the school.

Contributing to this successful operation is Norman Ziebell, activity director. All arrangements for the use of classrooms, the auditorium, and the school corridors have to pass through his office. With athletic activities under his supervision also, he is responsible for planning the annual Homecoming parade in conjunction with the Lettermen's Club.

Scope of Language Department Widens

To meet the demands of increased enrollment, the MHS English and foreign language department is growing and improving continually to provide more classroom opportunities.

Sophomores study English consisting of grammar, composition, and literature. Reading the classics Tale of Two Cities and Silas Marner, the sophomores in the general, as well as the new college preparatory classes, learn to analyze the plot, historical value, and characters of these novels.

Prose and poetry of prominent American authors are emphasized in the junior program of study. This includes general American literature; journalism, which gives students the opportunity to do newspaper writing in addition to their regular work; and honors, which speeds up the class schedule for a limited number of students. Required of many of the junior classes is one day of oral English a week.

English Literature and composition are elective for seniors. Studied a full year, the literature covers the works of English authors from Anglo-Saxon to modern times; composition gives extensive practice in grammar by writing a theme each week.

Practice is also the key in the field of modern foreign languages, as students strive to grasp the unfamiliar accents and sounds of French and Spanish. Sophomores, as well as upperclassmen, may study these languages as Moline's program keeps pace with the times. Three years of high school Latin makes possible a thorough study of the civilization, language, and philosophy of the ancient Roman world.

Benefitting from several changes, the MHS science and math departments continue to offer students a variety of challenging elective courses.

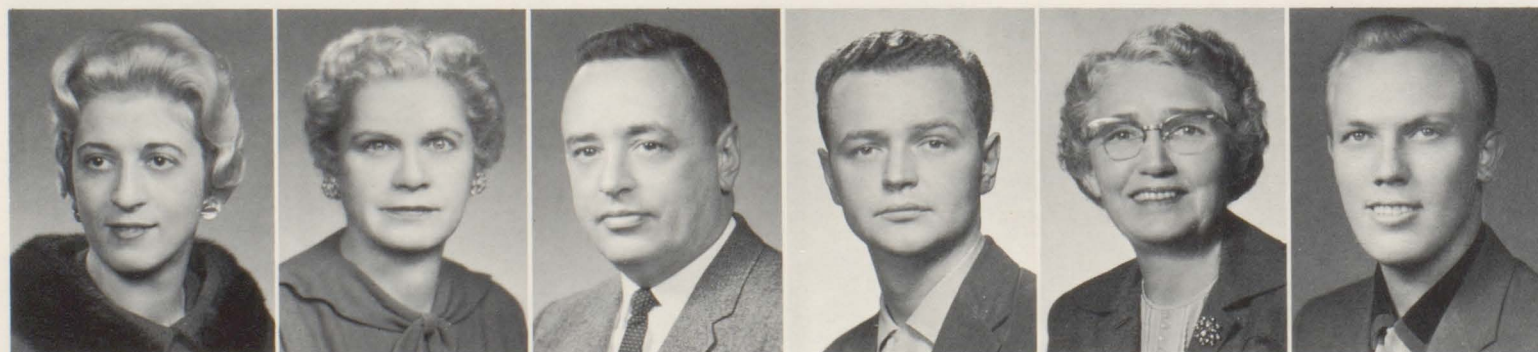

Biology and chemistry maintain their basic laboratory practices, while the physics department initiates a new course prescribed by the Physical Science Study Committee. Offered to one senior class, this subject applies an entirely new concept in the teaching of physics; it stresses primarily the practical application of advanced scientific principles.

Expanding its program to make advanced algebra as well as plane geometry available to sophomores, the math department, in addition to these courses, provides trigonometry and solid geometry to upperclassmen; while the senior honors group studies college analytical geometry, a new addition to the MHS curriculum.

"The barbarians came down through this country," explains Mr. Laws to his sophomore world history class as Dave Bloomquist and Connie Turner take a closer look at the ancient map.

To fulfill the curiosity about the world and its people, MHS students are required to take five semesters of social science.

Sophomore classes gain valuable education through the exploration of world history—from oriental dynasties to the colonies of the new world. While studying United States history, juniors learn to unearth the problems which have faced our country since the day of Columbus and to meet the inevitable problems of the future. In government, seniors discover the functions of local and national governing bodies.

Past and present problems come alive through the social sciences at MHS, as students and teachers work to build a nation of well-informed citizens.

Throughout daily class sessions, numerous Moline High students endeavor to achieve proficiency in the arts—ranging from the fine arts to industrial arts.

Growing in the art of awareness, both the crafts and art classes strive to develop the techniques of self-expression through such skills as painting, pottery-making, leather-tooling, sculpturing, and chalk sketching.

During the year vocal and instrumental music students work to uphold the tradition of outstanding musical accomplishments at MHS. Joining the mixed choirs and Operetta Workshop in this department this year, is the boys' glee club. These, as well as the ever-enlarging MHS band and orchestra, labor tirelessly to learn the basic techniques necessary to please the public in their many performances.

Preparation for future work is the aim of the numerous business and vocational courses available to MHS students. Typing is offered in all three classes; those desiring to continue in this area of study may take shorthand, bookkeeping, or general office practice, including stenography and the operation of office machinery. With the emphasis on actual participation, Distributive Education enables students to spend several hours a day as employees in local firms. They also are required to take two hours of D.E. classroom work.

In the rooms assigned to the domestic arts, girls electing courses in home economics learn the essentials of using the Basic Seven food chart and the skills involved in creating clothes with the effective use of color, design, and textiles. Meanwhile, MHS boys have the choice of extensive industrial arts training courses. In some phases they plan and design their own tools and machinery, while in others they use these machines in practical situations. Instruction is also offered in shop classes such as electronics, woodworking, and drafting.

Arts Increase Awareness; Vocational

"Ummm! That smells delicious, girls!" remarks Mrs. Manus as she oversees the preparation of a tasty dish. Students of her advanced foods class, Karen Biorn and Vicky Fosbinder, wait anxiously to sample the product of their efforts.

With the exception of the grass field, this game is played much like ice hockey. Football, basketball, wrestling, gymnastics, volleyball, tennis, and physical fitness provide inside and outside activity for the boys.

Six weeks of required instruction in health and first-aid stress the importance of caring for the body and of being prepared to handle emergencies. A class in the fundamentals of automobile safety is required for graduation.

From early morning until late afternoon, MHS secretaries work diligently to complete the vast amount of office work. Karen McCandless, Mrs. Olive Hayden, Mrs. June Hartley, and Mrs. Evelyn Engstrom check over a few of the tasks.

Seniors

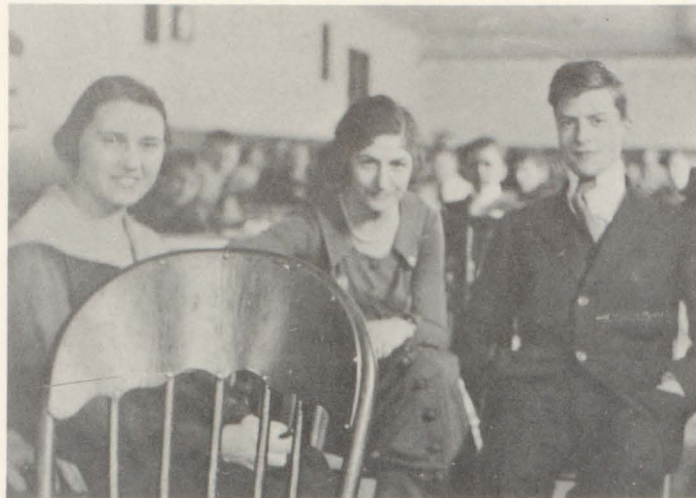

As surely as Time and the River flow on, each fall sees a new senior class—in all the fun, work, and sadness of their last memorable year at MHS.

Senior girls in the early 1900's enjoyed the now-outdated ruffles and frills of their everyday school garb.

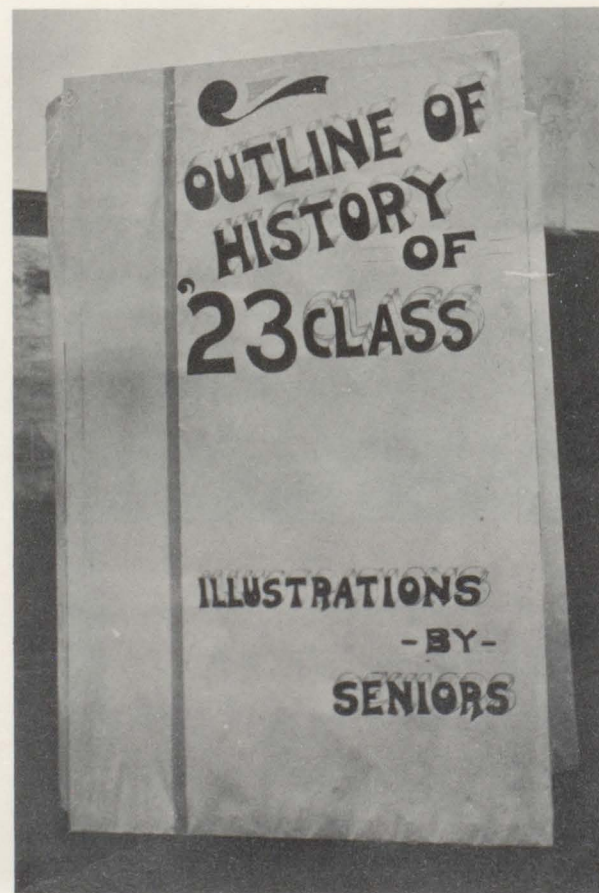

Lunchtime in 1919 meant a relaxing break from studies as it does today—a time to talk with friends and rest for afternoon classes.

Memorable Events of Each Senior Year

Since the 1920's, time has not lessened the fun of the thrills and spills of a sledding party in the brisk out-of-doors.

Recording important senior events, the class of 1923 took pride in compiling an "Outline of History."

All high school graduates have been faced with questions, but the most prominent has always been "What lies ahead?"

Remain the Same as Classes Come and Go

With the same anticipation and uncertainty that all seniors have felt, another MHS class has been graduated—as the fiftieth class of the "M."

Unlimited opportunities have led senior classes to study a variety of subjects, create new activities, and start new fads. In the early decades of this century inexperienced but devoted members of the 1913 senior class blazed a trail in the publication of a yearbook. Also originating in this year was the now-traditional wearing of caps and gowns. For years at Moline High upperclassmen learned Swedish, German, penmanship, and calisthenics; but, with the flow of time, the curriculum has changed and these courses are now gone. In the midst of this studying and having fun, many seniors were forced to grow up quickly as they watched their classmates and perhaps best friends leave, even before graduation, to serve in one of the three wars which the "M" has seen.

In both the wintry days of January and the balmy days of June, MHS graduates received diplomas and left the friendly halls of Moline High. Class valedictorian and salutatorian appeared in double number for many years—one set for each of these two graduation ceremonies. Soon this system changed to only a June commencement; and then, in 1959, a further change was made. The old custom of naming two seniors as scholastic leaders of their class was altered to an arrangement in which the top two per cent is named as the scholastic honor group.

As many years have drawn to a close, outstanding seniors have been honored by a variety of awards—one of which has been the Merit Shield, first given by the class of 1926. With these, thousands of seniors have departed from MHS, leaving their feelings of youth to the flood of future generations.

As in 1962, the ADC productions during the early 1950's added that extra spark of gaiety to the senior year.

President Woodie Acord reviews plans for a busy year to interested class officers: Andy Seitz, secretary-treasurer; literary board members, Jess Mendoza and Carol Thorngren; and Steve Marsho, vice-president.

Sponsors and Officers Guide '62 Seniors

Class sponsors Mr. Frank Willits, Miss Frances Johnson, Miss Barbara Garst, and Mr. Fritz Boom offer assistance throughout the last year's activities.

Having at last reached the crest of their high school days the class of 1962 began the last semesters with hopes for fun in many ways: studying, cheering, and partying.

Adventuresome senior girls attracted the interest of many passers-by as they cycled along twenty-third avenue for early registration. With anticipation they re-entered the spacious rooms and halls of MHS. There the stage, gym, library, and cafeteria awaited the familiar activities of the school year.

With the changing of seasons came the suspense and excitement of the colorful homecoming festivities. The coronation of fellow classmates, the gala parade, and the exciting game offered added meaning to the carefree seniors. This gaiety faded all too quickly into difficult aptitude tests, interviews for jobs, and program-planning with Mr. Jack Coder and Miss Helen Anderson, new senior counselors.

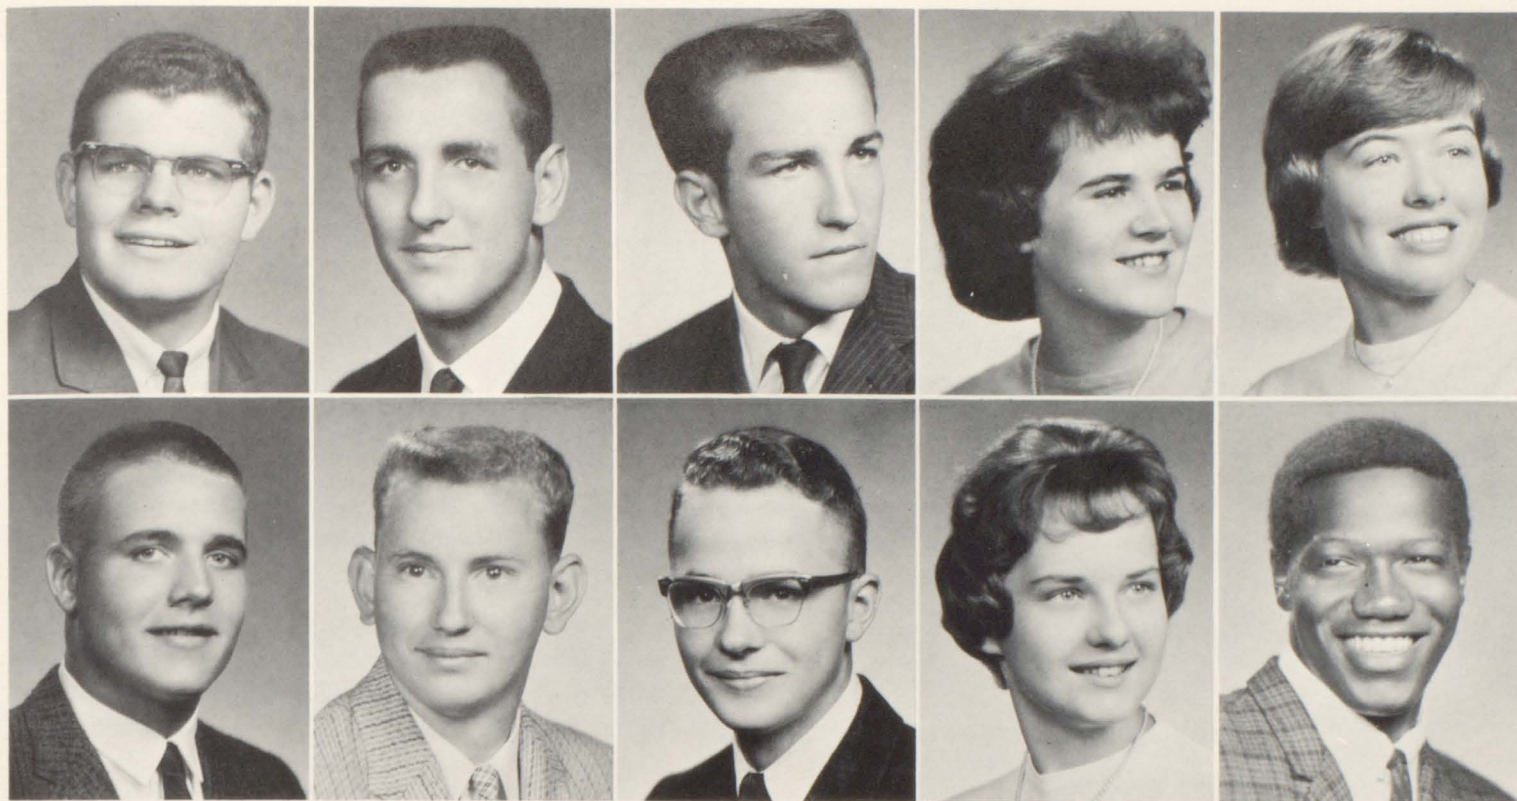

Traditional College Day, November 21, interrupted daily schedules to give seniors the opportunity to chat informally with campus and business representatives from many locales.

As the days drifted by, Meg Holden, exchange student from Liverpool, continued to delight MHS students with her charming English accent and personality. Upon her arrival Meg found much in common with fellow senior Jill Morgon, who had spent the past summer in Austria as Moline's first participant in the American Field Service program.

Attending MHS classes and cheering their teams for the final time as students, upperclassmen progressed from the brisk autumn days into the cold blast of winter. After Christmas, New Year's Eve, and the completion of semester examinations, the days of the final stretch sped by with amazing rapidity.

Spring arrived and senior committees carried out plans for the coming events: the unique ADC production, the memorable senior ball, the customary wills and prophecies of Swingout and the Maroon and White caps and gowns for Graduation. The Golden "M's," commemorating the fiftieth anniversary, were distributed and received by excited students.

The joy, solemnity, and nostalgia of Baccalaureate and Commencement soon merged as the '62 graduates were set adrift in the turbulence of the ever-changing world.

Underclassmen

Juniors, sophomores—our underclassmen—strive to find a firm footing in their first years at MHS as they drift with the crowds . . . studying, learning, and making new friends.

"Buttons 'n Bows," Bloomers Disappear;

For many years, the annual Latin Club play was a popular activity in the lives of many high school underclassmen.

While the juniors have held their status at Moline High School for fifty years, Moline sophomores have been frequently uprooted, existing as either the junior high upperclassmen or the senior high underclassmen.

Sophs, coming to the crowds of MHS, while overwhelmed by the rushing activity and bewilderment of high school, have strived to find their footing and to achieve a feeling of security. They have worked to take active places in all aspects of MHS life: scholastics, dramatics, music, clubs, and athletics; through wars, depressions, and periods of relative peace, the "M" has seen them as the learners, the workers, and—in many cases—the doers.

Their first varsity letter, dramatic role—large or small—, or satisfactory grade report have been high points in their underclassmen career. All-class parties used to provide frequent opportunities for dancing and fun, but have now joined the flood of lost traditions. Gone, too, are the days of middy blouses, bloomers, and "buttons and bows." The choice of a class motto and class colors, for many years essential in September elections, has been pushed aside by the ever-increasing pace of student life.

With new and more difficult courses to conquer and important customs to grasp, they have gained a bit more confidence and a bit more maturity. As young people of Moline, they have learned through mistakes and discoveries. As underclassmen, supporting MHS for fifty years, these many classes have become a vital part of the school and its tradition.

Through the days of shoulder-length curls in 1943, sparkling majorettes have led the well-drilled bands in precision marching.

Dramatic productions such as "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" in 1936 have given juniors and sophomores opportunities to reveal their talents on the MHS stage.

Underclassmen Continue to Grow, Learn

Ringling through the auditorium and corridors of the old school for years were the sounds of song and laughter from informal practice sessions.

Dad-daughter date-nights have delighted underclassmen girls in both GAA and Y-Teen programs as they have brought tasty dishes to share with their dads in the pot-luck suppers.

Thinking, studying, daydreaming, and reading, MHS students spent many hours in the old library. Now having access to the new and spacious library, underclassmen still utilize the valuable resources of many of the same books.

"Well, kids, only two more basketball games and we can begin planning for our prom," Dave Keeler, junior class president, jokingly remarks to Mark Brooks and Marty Smutz, literary board; Mary Kay Pieper, secretary-treasurer; and Jim Longabaugh, vice-president.

Keeler, Longabaugh, Pieper Lead Junior

Wading through endless hours of diligent study countered by fun-filled times participating in school activities, our juniors found their second year at MHS exasperating but enjoyable.

Early in September, style, color, and size became the key words as the juniors embarked upon the eventful task of selecting their class rings. Snatching a moment between classes or before the bus left after school, the eleventh graders peered into the show case at the sparkling display. After the vote and orders were taken, December 18 marked the arrival of the treasured rings.

As the leaves of autumn began to fall, many juniors still without drivers' licenses practiced faithfully, hoping to earn the privilege to drive "on their own" before the ice and snow of winter. Equally industrious in another field, their classmates were engulfed by those long-dreaded investigation themes. Sources, note-cards, first drafts, and outlines dominated their time and exhausted their energies until at last that glorious night came when the deluge ceased and the final and completed copy was ready to hand in for grading.

Soon after finals and National Merit testing, the class officers began planning for their momentous Junior-Senior Prom. Appointing committees, deciding upon a theme, and creating decorations to transform the massive Wharton Field House into a beautiful ballroom were chores that proved both time-consuming and fun. Soon the long-awaited night was over and only a dried corsage or a battered bit of decoration endured as reminders.

With the fads, fun, and frustrations of eleventh grade past, spring elections presented themselves boldly to the juniors and the "only one more year" idea loomed in their minds.

Morning comes early for MHS teachers. Taking advantage of a few minutes before the 8 a.m. bell, the junior class sponsors gather to check on details concerning the prom. Miss Roseberg, Miss Steckel, and Mr. Goar wonder if the morning mail will contain a final confirmation from their dance band.

Even Santa could not cause smiles more radiant than those of juniors Kathy Wallace and Jan Ortman as they receive their sparkling class rings from Mr. Melange, the "ring man." Arriving a week before Christmas, the rings created excitement throughout that day and week as the juniors admired their new purchases, the first sign of the approach of their senior year.

Exploring the finer points of chemistry, juniors Jon Heberling and Don Roberts wonder at the reaction they have caused by the combination of only two small crystals of phosphorous and iodine. The novelty of this laboratory work proves fun and challenging as students are amazed at unexpected results in the forms of bubbles, smoke, and brilliant changes in color.

No matter how you look at it — it is work! Juniors Diane Rose, Gary Claerhout, Mike Johnston, Dave Claeys, Bill Rives, and Barb Lambert would no doubt agree as they industriously page through volumes of books in an attempt to assemble their investigation themes.

Juniors Support Fads, Projects of MHS

"Okay, Koivun, let's take care of those hats," junior Adey Tonnessen, laughingly instructs classmate Dave Koivun. Unaware of the friendly treachery behind them, Kiki Miller and Kay Whitebook ignore the warnings of Ellen Petrovich, who seems to know of the boys' intentions. Many an MHS girl — and even boy — donned these furry, ear-warming chapeaux on the blustering days of winter when icy winds and snow balls whistled about them.

Gail Dilworth, Jack Border, and Judy Norris add the finishing touches to a stage flat, one of the infinite number of tasks required to make every show a success. Cramming in a few precious minutes of study before their ride arrives, Cherie Pobanz, Shirley Widell, Sharon Quick, and Sheila Newman form a scholarly scene in the chilly hours of dawn. Frostbitten fingers and toes pass unheeded as the girls think only of a possible quiz first period. A blaring honk soon announces that classes await them.

Sophomores Learn to Set Out Early for

Full of pep and loyalty for their new alma mater, 716 sophomores, the last of the three-junior high system, became an important part of the ever-growing MHS student body.

Rising often before the sun, the sophs traveled to school by various means: car, bus, bike, or foot. With the usual feeling of uncertainty, they drifted about the halls for several weeks still searching for classrooms or the bustling activity of the cafeteria. They were ahead of their upperclassmen in one respect, however, for they were already accustomed to the seven-period day—a new system for the juniors and seniors.

From the wonderful excitement of working on floats for Homecoming to the countless hours of study needed to conquer their new classes, the sophs enjoyed their first year at MHS. Boosting their own "Little Maroon" teams, the sophs eagerly joined the juniors and seniors at Browning Field, Wharton Field House, the George Senneff pool, and our own gyms to cheer on the victorious Moline squads. Our new athletes, with persistence and determination, strived throughout the year to maintain the precedence set by varsity teams.

Overwhelming was the vast array of activities before the newcomers—dramatics, music, after-school sports, "Y" groups, and numerous other clubs which catered to their specific interests.

Sandwiched in between early morning arrivals and evening meetings was the inevitable—work and study. Plunging into the infinite resources of the bookshelves, the sophs quickly learned the essentials for completing term papers and book reports.

June finally came; and the future eleventh graders took various paths for the summer, having experienced the many joys and problems of their first year in senior high school.

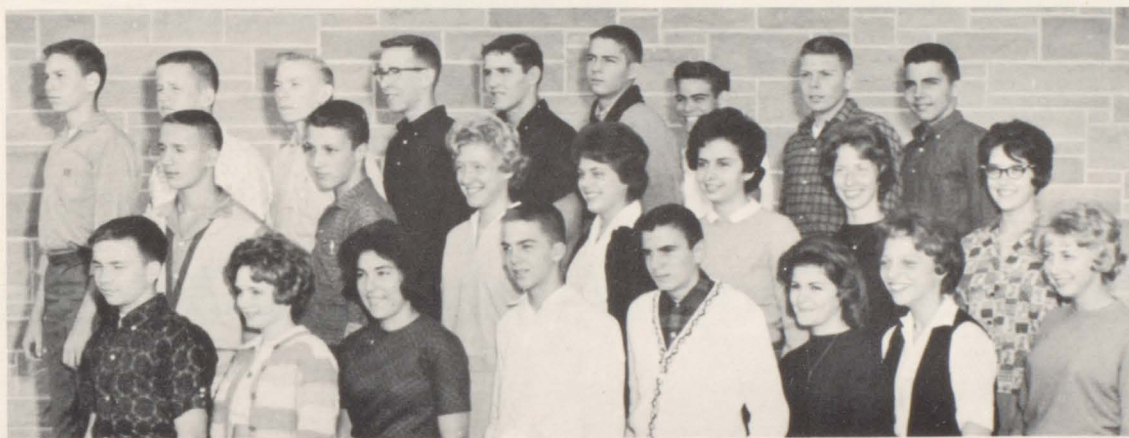

Miss Garst and Mr. Griffith, sophomore counselors, laughingly agree that each day presents new and interesting situations. With schedule changes, locker problems, absence reports, and private conferences, they fill their time in their offices behind the bulletin-bedecked dividers, guiding and helping the new tenth graders.

Sophomore lads and lassies alike experience a few bewildering moments as they prepare to begin the school day. After battling with stubborn lockers, collecting the books they need, and greeting a passing friend, they venture forth into the life-filled halls of MHS.

"Life's a maze — at least for sophomores," could be the thoughts of Sharon Colberg as she pensively contemplates the labyrinth of offices while awaiting counsel with Miss Garst. Student Life

This is MHS reflecting the lives of its students . . . worshipping, laughing, playing, working, and serving in areas ever-branching out into new and unfamiliar fields.

As a part of early Student Life, great Roman gods received high praise from Latin Club members.

Activities, Crazy Fads of Fun-Loving

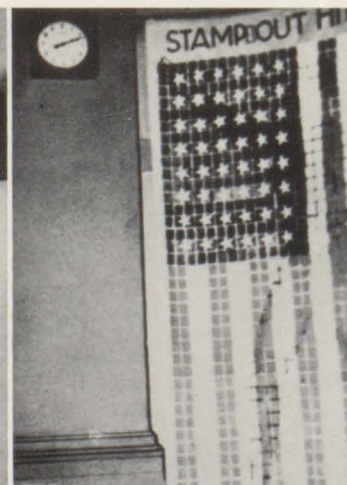

Among the first members of GAA, energetic girls of 1929 formed basketball teams for intra-school competition.

Fifty years of "M" coverage have seen many clubs, fads, and activities come to MHS, linger awhile, then drift away, leaving a richness in lasting tradition.

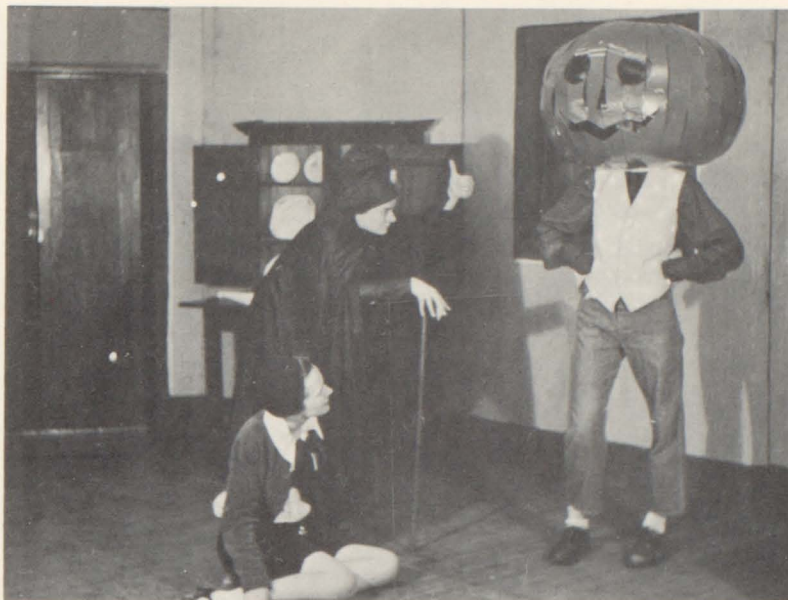

While these aspects of student life have changed with time, students of 1962 are the same as the fun-loving, fad-crazy, crowd-minded youths who have filled the halls of MHS since 1913. Through the changes from the short bobbed hair of the 1930's to the bubble cut of today, the cozy racoon-skin coats and ankle-length skirts to the knee-ticklers of the golden '60's, students have kept with the times as have the activities which are so important in MHS life.

Time has completely washed away any evidence of the existence of the once very active Civics Club; while the annual boys' Fellowship Minstrel show remains only as a time-worn memory in the ADC Fellowship production. Emphasis on clubs has changed, too; for no longer do the town's people turn out en masse for a do-or-die debate, forensics or declamation contest with neighboring communities.

Miss Leona Day, dedicated government teacher, led the students in the "Stamp out Hitler" campaign, recorded in the 1943 "M."

Before merging with the boys' Fellowship productions, the girls at MHS presented many of their own humorous After Dinner Club shows.

Classmates Mark Eras of Student Life

While some of the old has gone, much has remained; GAA, language, and vocational clubs—originated in the 1920's—are still recorded in the "M"'s. The YMCA and YWCA programs, also, have encompassed MHS youth since 1925 when "Girls' Reserves" was the name which preceded the Hi-Y and Y-Teens of 1962. To preserve these years of growth and change in print has been the aim of the Line O'Type since the first edition in 1917; the Imp joined in 1942 to make a trio of publications. Homecoming tradition, too, has bridged this rapidly-changing stream of activities; as it has existed, in all its autumn gaiety and excitement, since 1919.

Under these surface changes, there are still students: friendship, laughter, frustration, success, sadness, and joy. The silent touches of time have remained in MHS student life.

Beautiful Homecoming mums and equally-beautiful queens have brightened Student Life for numerous years.

"Always buddies" has been the motto of thousands of high school boys throughout the fifty years of the "M."

Anxious, Suspenseful Moments Precede

Happiness and hopefulness rush over the sparkling royalty as they whisper to each other a final "good luck" wish. Unaware of their positions in the '61 court, Andy Seitz, Debbie Westlin, Jill Morgan, Pat Carlson, and Sandra Raby ease the tense minutes; as Char Bjurstrom, junior attendant, and Barb Ericson, sophomore attendant make last minute adjustments.

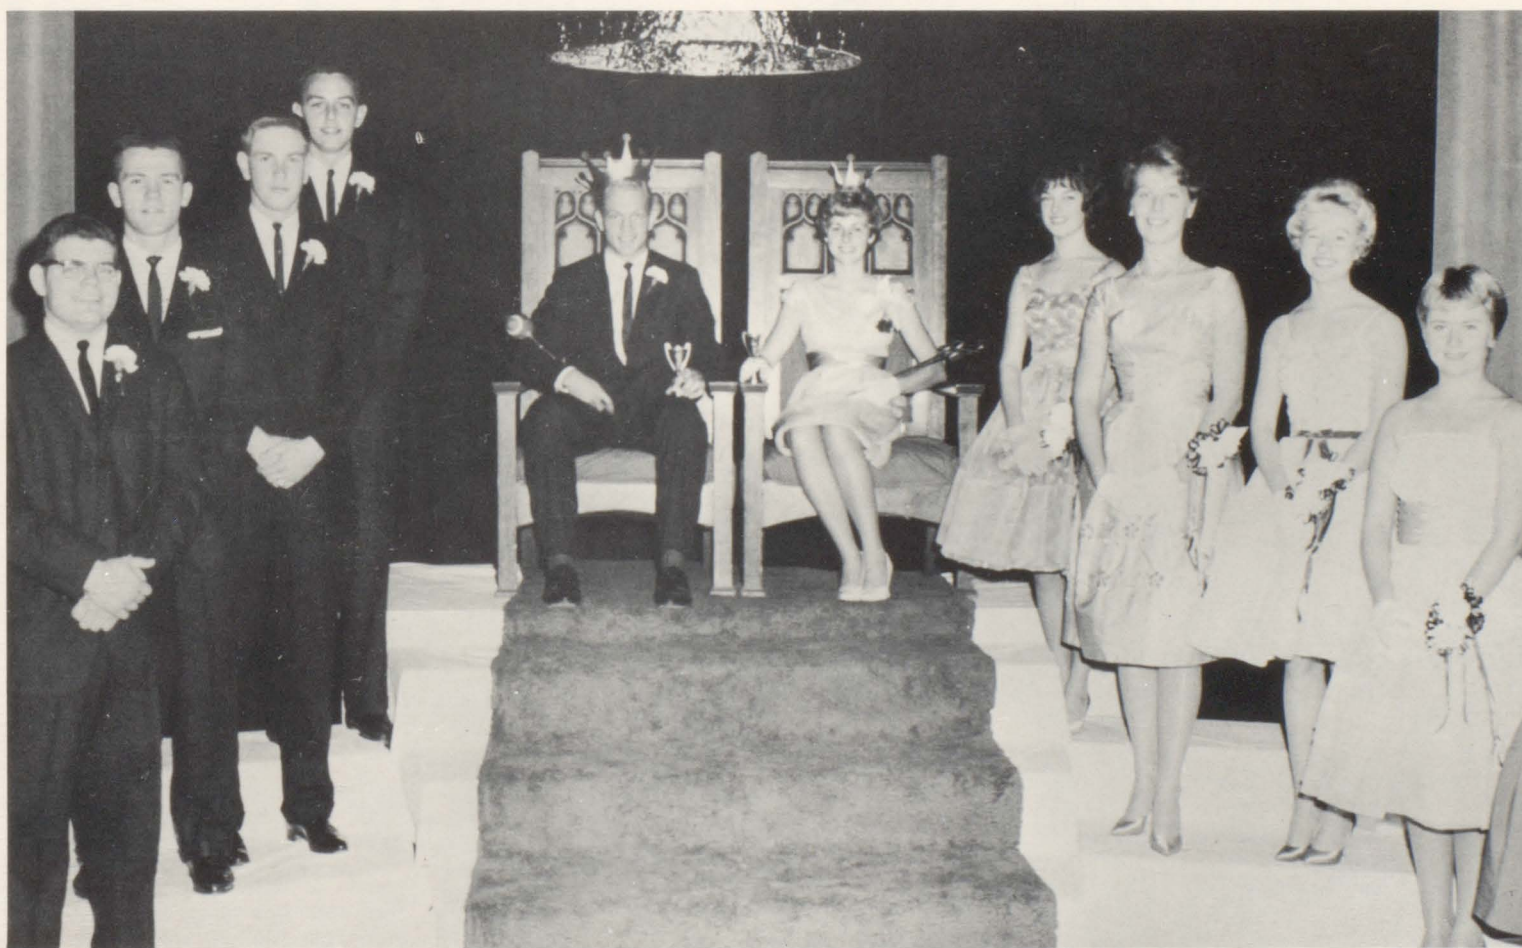

After the sophomore and junior attendants have been revealed as Steve Ferrell and Bill Olsen, the audience waits in hushed silence; while, behind the door, Woodie Acord, Bill Moffitt, Steve Marsho, Jeff Lundeen, and Wes Johnson listen for their introductions which will make known the secret of their places in the court.

LO'T King Jeff; "M" Queen Sandra; Andy Seitz, first attendant; Jill Morgan, second attendant; Debbie Westlin, third attendant; and Pat Carlson, fourth attendant.

Braving the brisk autumn winds and actively displaying school spirit, Kris Vonderhaar and Jack Kelly adorn the goal posts with maroon and white crepe paper. Somewhat doubtful of the stability of the posts, Jack hopes that a few more times around will finish the job.

Beneath a brilliant blue October sky, the 1961 Homecoming court reigned over two days of festive activity.

In a flurry of excitement on Thursday, the twelfth, the court was presented before the entire student body at two assemblies. As in other years, a vote for the Queen was earned by the purchase of a 1962 "M"; while the voting for the King and class attendants was sponsored by the Line O'Type staff. The respective editors of the publications served as masters of ceremony for the regally-performed coronation as the couple was crowned.

Fun, friends, and a blazing bonfire dominated the scene near the school parking lot that night. With chants for victory, cheering fans joined voices and hands and formed the traditional snake dance which wound through our school campus and King Plaza.

Friday the thirteenth and our opponent, the East Moline Panthers, had inspired numerous clever and original floats for the annual Homecoming parade Friday. Students worked tirelessly into the night preceeding the big day to produce prize-winning entries. Those awake near midnight witnessed the downpour of rain which momentarily dampened their spirits as it threatened to hamper the festivity of the following day.

Dark clouds hung over the city until 2 p.m. the next day. Then, as the royal couples rode to Wharton Field House to take their places at the head of the colorful procession, the sun suddenly burst through the overcast sky, setting a golden stage as it shone through the gently falling amber and gold leaves.

Throngs of exuberant Moliners met the parade as it moved through the downtown area. After saluting the '61 Fighting Maroons at the pep rally led by the cheerleaders and the band at Stephen's Square, the crowd dispersed to prepare for the big game and dance that night. While students were in preparation, visiting "M" Men were honored at a banquet in the high school cafeteria. Following the dinner, they took seats along the sidelines of Browning Field and joined the enthusiastic parents and students in watching the Fighting Maroons as they swept over the Panthers.

Prior to the game, fans had observed a bit of twentieth century chivalry when King Jeff, seeing his lady in distress on one side of a puddle of water, crossed and gallantly carried Queen Sandra to dry land on the other side. Following the presentation of one dozen beautiful red roses to the radiant Queen, our '61 King repeated his act, much to the pleasure of the cheering crowds.

"Our Hour to Remember," the after-the-game dance, sponsored by the GAA, climaxed the two-day celebration as the court was once again presented. With this, all the magic and fun-filled hours of Homecoming silently drifted away to linger forever as wonderful memories.

Enjoying peaceful moments in between the flurry of events, are the honored class attendants; Steve Ferrell and Barb Ericson, sophomore; Bill Olsen and Char Bjurstrom, junior.

Unforgettable Days in Autumn Sunshine

"Give us one big fight!" shout Moline's cheerleaders as they lead the crowd in a pre-game pep rally at Stephen's Square. Amidst the crisp fall leaves and the late afternoon sunshine, fans and the MHS band joined in honoring the '61 royalty and cheering the Maroons on to victory.

"Congratulations, honey, we're all so proud of you!"

This year, with the school sign at last erected, the Student Congress worked toward the establishment of a student lounge equipped with refreshment machines and comfortable furniture.

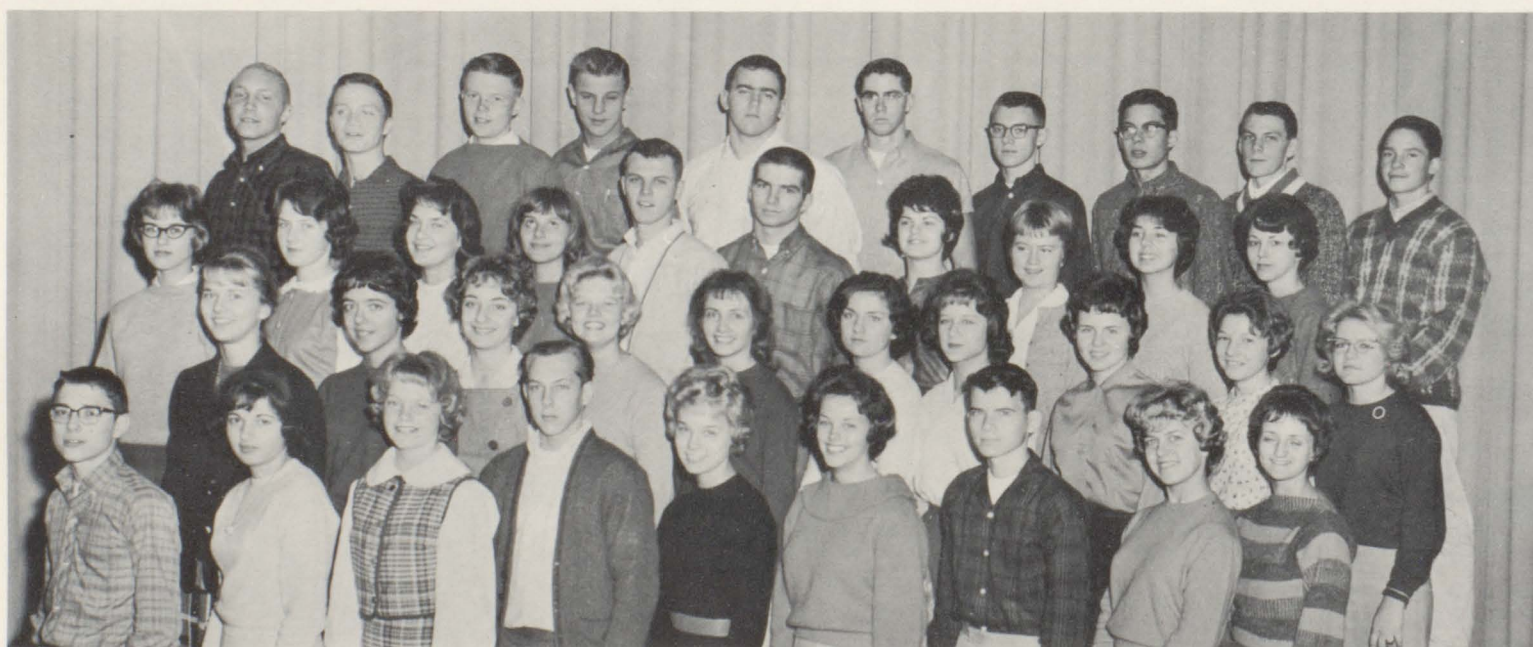

Sponsored by Mrs. Iva Owen, the group's activities outside of the lounge project ranged from raising money for the American Field Service exchange student to sponsoring candy sales in the school corridors. In addition, for the convenience of students, they compiled and sold the student directory with the new name of Telo-Maroon.

For variety at their after-game dance, the congress social committee conducted a dance contest, featuring the popular Twist, and awarded a record album to the winning couple.

Representing MHS for the first time on the Quint-City Student Congress executive board was senior Jill Morgan. As secretary, she was responsible for sending various newsletters and meeting notices to the area schools. Continually working to serve the school and student body, Student Congress proved itself as an essential part of the extra-curricular program.

Anxious to introduce their first assembly program, Sandra Raby, Student Congress vice-president; and Steve Marsho, president; wait for the attention of the students.

Mr. Coder, Key Club sponsor, breathes a sigh of relief as he checks over a final list of successful service and money-making projects.

"We Build" was the motto and year's policy of the MHS Key Club this year, with Mr. Jack Coder serving as their new sponsor.

A branch of the Kiwanis Club, the group devoted much of the 1961-62 year to raising funds to finance the Korean War commemorative plaque and time-worn World War I and II plaques. Ushering at Moline Maroon basketball games was again a part of this service club's program. In addition, the annual sale of activity calendars and a candy sale enabled this junior Kiwanis group to meet their monetary goals.

Adding a spark of gaiety to the spring months was their rollicking Slave Day. Conducted like an auction, the day proved fun for both the masculine "slaves" and the feminine "buyers." As in past years, Key Club's beneficence spread to include the boys at Arrowhead Ranch. The used Boy Scout uniforms collected by the MHS boys were presented to the ranch for their newly-organized scout troop.

Club members Mike Wallaert, Tony Parsons, and John Boyer pause solemnly to read the impressive words inscribed on the Korean War plaque honoring "the former students of MHS who bravely represented our country."

Aid to Education Evaluated by Debaters

To assure a successful debate seniors Frank Seydel, Paul Diehl, and Mike Carlson review topic cards from their carefully prepared filing index.

Sub-varsity debaters give valuable pointers for presentation as they listen to one another in after-school practices. Here, Bill Roba speaks before Sam Lyman, Sandy Thompson, Eric Trimble, Rick Carlson, Mike Hunt, and Sharon Scott.

Experiencing the gratifying rewards of hard work and constant practice, the MHS debate team completed a successful season.

In the early fall debaters carefully organized reference material preparing for the year's topic: Resolved: That the Federal Government should equalize educational opportunities by means of grants to the states for public, elementary, and secretary education. Important first semester debates, the Davenport and Geneseo Invitationals, brought the varsity team two first places; while the sub-varsity entered the Mississippi Valley Conference tournament at Clinton. Augustana College was the scene of a state-wide invitational on February 2. This proved the most challenging competition of the year for MHS debaters, under the coaching of Miss Lucy Shawgo.

Float, Initiation Brighten French Club

Learning of French customs and history, Le Cercle Francais experienced a year of fun as it grew and branched out into new areas of activity.

At the first meeting, new members appeared in an assortment of colorful and amusing French costumes as part of their initiation; while upperclassmen enjoyed the evening, dictating a series of hilarious antics to the initiates.

Combining French history and old U.S. superstition, the energetic group built a float which earned a third place in Homecoming parade competition. Entitled "Cut 'Em Off," the entry was topped with a large East Moline Panther in an operating guillotine. Despite a chilly November day, the members sponsored a car wash to raise money for the year's activities.

Throughout the year, sponsor, Mrs. Helen Piehl, showed films of various French Provinces. To explore the Old World further, she traveled abroad after the school year, planning to spend part of her time studying at the famous Sorbonne in Paris.

"Plus de l'eau!" directs French Club president, Larry Hultgren, as Jeff Carlson, vice-president; Heiko Reske, treasurer; and Terry Kramer, secretary; enjoy the work of a successful car wash.

"La cucaracha, la cucaracha, ch-ch-ch-ch" the comical Spanish club officers Tom Herbert, vice-president; Eric Gustavson, president; Brian Olivier, secretary; and Chuck Hoffman, treasurer; clad in native attire swing to the festive music of the Spanish guitar and maracas.

Gay and typically-Spanish, a full schedule of activities was planned by Mr. Billie Lee, new adviser of the MHS Spanish club.

After members donated canned goods and money for Thanksgiving baskets, the officers purchased turkeys and vegetables and delivered the food to three needy families in the community.

Four Marycrest students from Latin America brightened the Christmas party with their singing and dancing. Accompanied by a guitar, the girls invited the club members to sing carols in Spanish; after this, they all enjoyed apple cider and Christmas cookies.

In the spring, the gaiety of a Pinata party enlivened the club's year-end activities. Participants stood around the brightly-colored papier mache donkey singing "La Pinata" and trying to break it open with a stick. After its breaking, which highlighted the party, eager members grabbed for the spilled contents of candy and shining trinkets.

Educational Value of JCL Enhanced by

"Amo, Amas, Amat" began the hearty cheer of the Junior Classical League.

Conducting four meetings throughout the year, the club was open to all Latin students. As part of the meetings, lively skits and informative readings were given in an attempt to broaden the cultural interests of Latin students. To bring their supposedly dead language to life, the members sang familiar songs in Latin and enjoyed the musical entertainment staged by their fellow students.

Entering into the spirit of participation, the club decorated a car for the "M" Men's Homecoming parade and later sponsored a candy sale. A pot-luck supper ended the year for club members.

In the spring, JCL, sponsored by Latin teachers, Miss Fern Slusher and Ralph McMinn, again was responsible for entering MHS Latin students in state-wide Latin competition. In recent years, Moline has been well represented at these contests and has established a fine tradition of high ratings.

May Banquet Honors Literary Scholars

Pleased with and proud of their past publications are staff advisors Mrs. Mary Youngdahl, Line O' Type; Miss Barbara Garst, Imp; Mr. John Adam, "M"; and Miss Lucy Shawgo, Imp; the Literary Board Sponsors.

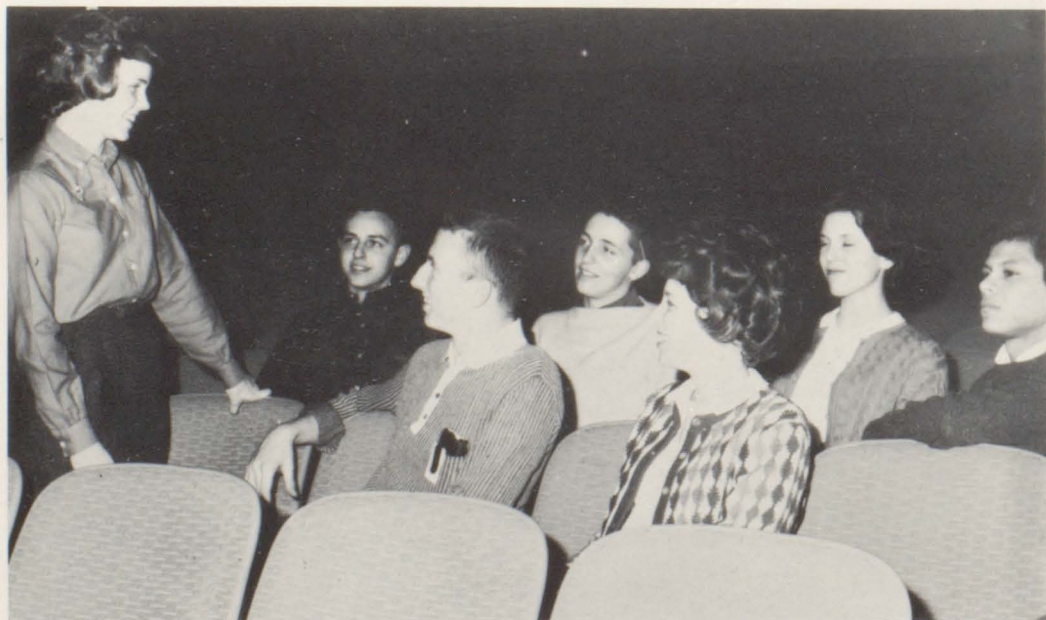

After countless hours of diligent work and study, deserving MHS journalists, artists, and debaters were honored at the Literary Banquet, successfully planned by the Literary Board.

Including four elected representatives and three officers from the junior and senior classes plus the "M," LO'T, and Imp sponsors and editors; the Lit Board met in April to select an appropriate theme which could be featured in decorations, place cards, and programs for the evening.

Students were able to forget for several hours their deadline, debate, and dramatic worries as they gathered for the annual dinner. After the excitement of Quill and Scroll, Harvard Book, and the creative writing awards, the 1962-63 editors and business managers were announced. With this, thoughts turned from the past to the future of Moline's literary tradition.

Literary Board officers Celia Smithers, president; Bob Ericson, secretary-treasurer; and Jon Miller, vice-president; review themes of past spring banquets and discuss possible ideas for the May dinner.

Imp Reveals Creative Minds of Students

Ever enlarging its contents of creative writings, the Imp recorded for the twentieth year the original essays, poems, and features of MHS students.

Reflecting the community in name—an abbreviation for implement—this literary magazine was first published in 1942 by Ella M. Cockrell, English instructor. This year the Imp strived, through a board of students and faculty judges, to select a good representation of Moline High's artistic writing talents.

Commending three years of outstanding work, the Imp presented the Julia E. Gettemy award to a worthy senior. Also in this field, were the Ella M. Cockrell prose and poetry awards. Although reminiscent in name of past days at MHS, these awards served to honor present creative accomplishments.

Imp material, like all literature, affects minds in a variety of ways as is confirmed by the happy expression of Miss Barbara Garst, sponsor, and the thoughtful appearance of Karen Johnson, editor.

Imp judges Lew Sears, Don Rose, and Susie Wycoff, critically analyze contributions submitted for the literary magazine.

"Just sign on the dotted line," prompts Phil Nissen, Imp subscription manager; while Larry Hultgren, business; and Sharon Hutton, advertising; revel in the joy of the prospect of another ad—this time from Josephson's.

Meeting the challenge of a weekly publication for the first time, the Line O'Type staff took on many additional responsibilities involved in recording the news at MHS.

This year, two editors, a managing editor and an editorial editor, plus two page editors for each of the four pages were appointed to handle the new system. Under adviser, Mrs. Mary Youngdahl, the journalism class found much of the news through their beat reports and aided the senior staff in writing many of the weekly stories and headlines.

One of the most rewarding projects for the staff was the "Share Joys—Buy Toys" campaign which they sponsored jointly with the home economics department. The campaign, collecting $506.33, far exceeded the goal for Christmas, 1961. The clever skit presented by the staff in an assembly increased the pleasure gained from this project.

In November, the National Association of Newspaper Publishers presented the Pacemaker Award to Mrs. Youngdahl as they recognized the 1960-61 Line O'Type series as one of the five outstanding high school papers in the nation.

"I'm so pleased with this editorial, boys. The topic was especially appropriate for this month," comments Mrs. Youngdahl in praise of her co-editors, Steve Marsho, managing, and Jon Miller, editorial.

Line O' Type Staff Displays Progress as

Thursday night blues do not seem to faze Nancy Groene and Kris Haedrich, circulation co-managers; as they perform the tedious task of counting papers; while Jim Wilson, business, and Kathy Johnston, advertising, help in this, the final step of publishing the weekly LO'T.

Watching in fascination as clever cartoonist Rees Orland sketches a hasty neb-bish caricature, LO'T feature co-editors, Pat Carlson and Ken Schneek, respond with bemused grins.

1962 Staff Moves Dust of 50 Years

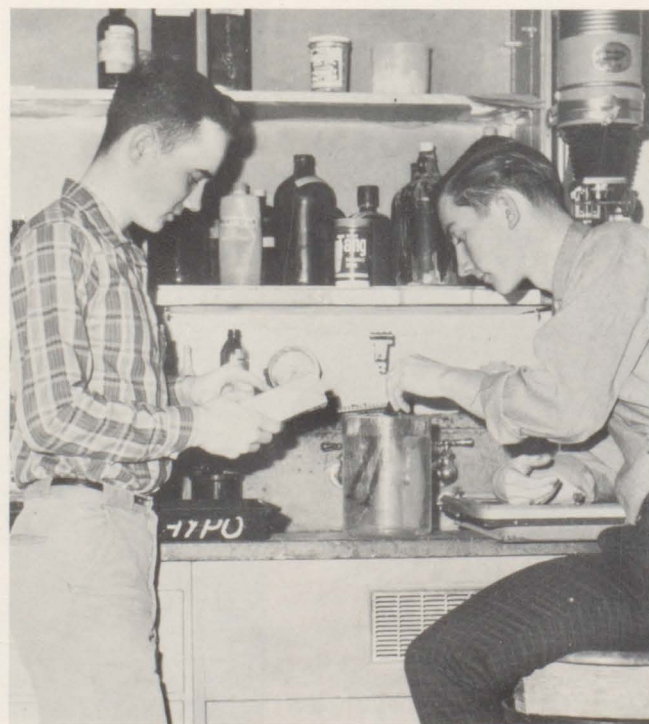

From after-school and evening idea sessions come big and promising plans for the "M". Terry Kramer, co-editor; Jon Schiewe, fine arts; and Mr. Adam, adviser, find the past annals of MHS interesting and amusing as they seek special historical information.

"This shot from the bridge looks pretty good, Don. I think Mr. Adam will like it," comments Jim Blecker, photographer, to his co-worker Don Burrough. Both boys spend innumerable hours in the dark room—their "home away from home."

Using the same yearbook jargon and the same basic elements as in the previous forty-nine years, the 1962 staff, experiencing the many problems and satisfactions of the yearbook business, assembled the fiftieth anniversary "M".

Journalistic terms flowed abundantly as these seniors learned the significance of bleeding, cropping, copy-writing, cutting, and proofing. With original ideas and plans, the staff launched their 240-page book and looked ahead to a year of challenging, but rewarding, work.

to Produce Golden Anniversary Annual of spring in March, this fiftieth staff labored tirelessly to produce a beautiful yearbook. The ultimate goal was to appropriately honor both the past and the present while sustaining the fine tradition established by the staffs from 1913 to 1961. The most recent accomplishment they saw in the CSPA Medalist and NSPA All-American won by the 1961 annual.

In May, with the dust of old "M"'s still on their fingers and memories of months of work still in their minds, they happily and proudly distributed their book—the 1962 Golden "M".

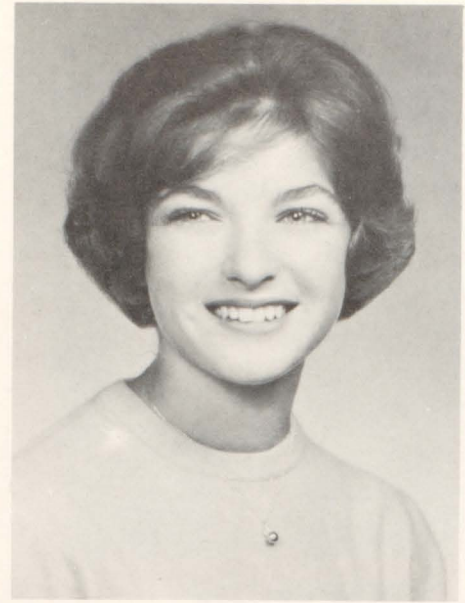

Heralding the beginning of "M" sales, Mr. McGoo and Mr. McBoing Boing's voices echoed through rooms of MHS as they helped Mary Jane Sodeman, subscriptions; Sandy Ickes, art; and Mary Blade, art assistant, fulfill their part in the publication of the golden "M".

"Sure would be funny if we didn't have any money, kids," chuckles Wes Johnson, sports editor. Liz Briley, index; Nancy Swanson, girls' sports; and Dave Fisher, assistant sports, are pleased that another shipment is on its way to Texas.

"Sign in, Peg, and you will become a full fledged National Honor Society member," remarks Jay Johnson to Peg Willey while Jim Althaus and Celia Smithers wait their turn before the initiation. All are members of the society's executive board.

With each candle placed in the holder and each new name added to the membership book, another MHS scholar was honored as a member of the National Honor Society.

At this ceremony presented March 13 in the auditorium, 61 seniors and 7 juniors were initiated into the society and presented with gold honor pins—a symbol of their accomplishments. A 3.5 average was required of seniors, while the juniors honored had maintained a 4. through five semesters of high school work. With the aid of Miss Anderson and Mr. Coder, the executive board organized this impressive ceremony and also made preparations for the annual College Day in November. Here, seniors were able to speak with college and vocational representatives.

To further recognize all members for their achievements, the High Twelve Club of Moline sponsored a banquet in the spring.

As an acknowledgement of superior work and participation on either the "M", Imp, or Line O'Type, the Quill and Scroll award was this year presented to 27 deserving seniors.

Announcement of membership in this society sponsored by the National Scholastic Press Association was made at the Literary Banquet in May. Selected staff members, relieved after months of hard work, happily received their gold honor pins; while others were given the bronze pins for their contributions to the three publications. Staff advisers and editors made the selections for these awards.

Adding to the suspense of the evening was the revealing of the Harvard Book Award, given annually to a junior boy who has excelled in the field of English.

"In Books lies the soul of the whole Past Time . . . All that Mankind has done."—Thomas Carlyle. Larry Case, recipient of the Harvard Book Award, presented for outstanding junior English work, delves into the maze of bookshelves, knowing that each new reading experience leads to ever-widening fields of knowledge.

"You'll never make any points using that ball," could be the thought of Jim Rosborough, secretary-treasurer, as he watches Jeff Lundeen, vice-president; Sid Anders, sergeant-at-arms; and Bill Moffitt, president, comically re-enact their junior high and high school football days. These and other trophies remind Moliners of the many glorious victories of the Maroons.

Clad in traditional "M" and numeral covered maroon jackets, MHS Lettermen fulfilled an active and successful year of service to the school and community.

In the fall, Moline's sportsmen aided the Line O'Type staff in the planning and publication of the annual Homecoming paper. In addition, they worked with Mr. Norman Ziebell, and new field house manager, Mr. Edward Lemon, to organize the customary parade in honor of the "M"-men. The creation of their clever entry, "Cut 'em to Pizzas" provided much fun and work for the Lettermen.

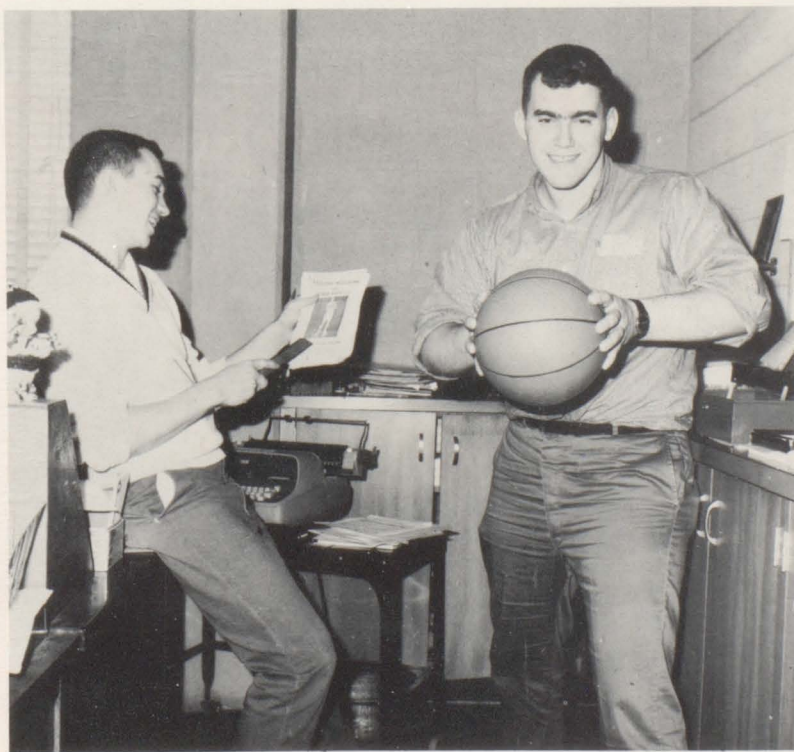

Selling Maroon booster buttons dominated the fall months for the club in the area of fund-raising, while the editing and sales of basketball programs kept members busy throughout the winter. From the profit of these sales, they contributed to the AFS foreign exchange program. In the fall and mid-winter, banquets honored the returning football and basketball Lettermen who watched the fighting Maroons triumph over opposing teams. Striving to maintain the tradition of these past teams, the '61-'62 Lettermen continued to put forth effort to gain victories and honors through participation and performance in their respective sports.

"I really think you're wasting your time and energy putting that button on my hat where nobody will ever see it," comments Don Rose jokingly to fellow Lettermen Ron Wildermuth and Jim Pfetzing.

Service Projects, Earn Glory for MHS

"How do you think you'd look on here, Tom?" laughs Letterman Jon Schiewe as he and Tom Herbert enjoy a few moments of fun while planning for the next week's basketball game program. Tom, chairman of this annual club project, attended weekly to team rosters, cover picture and story, and announcements for the program.

Delighting in the idea of "Mayor for a day," Skip Wilkerson authoritatively dictates a vital community message to fellow Hi-Y member, Glenn Johnson; while YMCA youth director, Fred Lear, enjoys the mock enactment of Youth in Government Day.

With the Youth in Government Days and the Winter Olympics highlighting the year, the Sabre, Cobra, and Trojan Hi-Y clubs gathered regularly at the YMCA for meetings.

Senior boys, originating their Sabre group in the tenth grade, enthusiastically participated in the State Youth in Government Day at Springfield, and, along with the juniors and sophomores, the local government day. Set aside for the Hi-Y Olympics, February 12 saw the three clubs ardently competing against each other in active sports such as swimming, track, volleyball, and rifle shooting.

Donating to YMCA World Service, the Junior Cobras sponsored a car wash and also helped with the Hi-Y after-game dance. The Trojan group, composed of sophomore boys, displayed community service as they helped the Y's men with sales at their Christmas tree lot.

Maintaining high Christian ideals and growing in appreciation and understanding was the goal of the Y-Teens, guided by YWCA youth directors, Mrs. Jerry Anderson and Mrs. Charles Moline.

Despite nipping winds, the annual welcome picnic in September, planned by the Intra-school board, was well attended. Fashioned of starfish and sea shells, the formal "Ebb Tide" became a dreamy enchanted isle for many Y-Teens and their dates. The pleasant formality of a Sunday afternoon tea in February appropriately honored Meg Holden, exchange student, and Jill Morgan, AFS Summer Abroad returnee.

Seniors, aiding in the Heart Fund and UNICEF drives began their program of events. The rollicking fun of the strip tea and a Hi-Y panel provided interesting meetings.

Enlightening the junior girls on subjects of a spiritual nature were a panel of local ministers and Dr. Leonora Nash; while Y-Teen models previewed stylish spring clothes at the Intra-school fashion show. Trying something new, the juniors invited their dads to a night of fun at the YWCA.

Sophomores, made new friends in their group, enjoying a volleyball challenge with the Hi-Y and a kitchen party spent making toffee. Joining in the Christmas toy workshop and party for needy children helped them learn that service, too, is one of the Y-Teen purposes.

October proves to be a busy month for Intra-school activity, as Y-Teens turned out wholeheartedly for the decoration of the club float "Pour It On" and the yearly "trick-or-treating" for UNICEF. Carol Swanson, Barb Guild and Tillie Rivera, service chairmen, display materials for the drive.

Tea Welcomes Sports-Minded Girls to

After a busy day of classes, energetic GAA sponsors, Miss Leimkuehler, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Carlson, and Miss Coin, look forward to after-school activity with GAA participants.

For over forty years, the Girls' Athletic Association has existed as the opportunity for MHS girls to enter into friendly and wholesome competition in a variety of activities.

New and old members were welcomed to the organization in September at the Sunday afternoon Mad Hatter Tea. Contributing to the success of the 1961 Homecoming celebration, GAA members enthusiastically decorated the cafeteria with fall colors and large clocks to carry out their dance theme, "Our Hour to Remember."

As part of their Christmas party, the old custom of caroling added cheer to the yuletide season. During the year, active parents participated in enjoyable sports with their girls at the annual Mother-Daughter Play-Night in the fall and the Dad-Daughter Date Night in February. With the presentation of Merit Award winners and new officers, the Mother-Daughter banquet climaxed the year.

Comic strip page featured three senior cavemen, Jack Lawless, Lew Sears and Chuck Hoffman swimming to the record "Alley Oop" with their women, Dorothy Johansen, Jill Morgan, and Karen Johnson.

This year the synchronized girls took their audiences with them as newspaper reporters to all the top news events. Numbers featured sports contests, robberies and even cartoons. Three senior boys on the swimming team added an extra touch to "Alley Oop," an act with three senior girls. Sandy Blackburn and Ron Berry, both seniors, swam a duet to the "Apartment" as they looked through the want ads.

During intermission, the audience was entertained by 3 of the girls who demonstrated several stunts such as dolphins, marlins, and ballet legs.

Dates of the show were April 12, 13 and 14. The show of eight numbers and a finale featuring various formations such as a large Star of David to "Exodus" was a great success.

GAA'ers, Maroonettes Entertain Parents

"Kick one, two, three, four" were the words heard continually as the Maroonette dancers practiced and drilled on new routines.

This year seventeen seniors, one junior, and two sophomores, chosen from the sixty girls who tried out in the fall, comprised the dance group. Two-year member, Susie Wycoff, served as choreographer.

As Susie created new steps to familiar tunes, the dancers practiced diligently every Thursday evening in preparation for a basketball halftime performance January 12 and several assembly presentations throughout the year.

Decked out in their attractive white-fringed maroon outfits and riding in two gayly-decorated convertibles, these dancing lasses appeared in the Homecoming parade for the first time.

"We are Moliners; we're from Moline! Our team's the best team you've ever seen!" sing the Pep Club members as they salute the 1962 Maroons.

Girls' Pep Club, completing a second year of boosting Maroon teams, promised to become a tradition as it enlarged its support to more of Moline's athletic activities.

One hundred girls—fifty seniors, thirty juniors and twenty sophomores—plus alternates when needed faithfully assisted the cheerleaders throughout the year. On many brisk fall nights, the group, seated together at football games, proved a source of hearty cheering.

Working against time and the unpredictable weather, Pep Club members created a first-prize winning float for Homecoming. "There's Snap in Our Guards" was the clever theme which brought them honor with their first parade entry.

In sparkling white blouses, the girls gathered regularly at basketball games with the sharp contrast of their new maroon and white shakers enhancing the appearance of their cheering section. Guided by sponsor Mrs. Judy Brooks, they maintained pep and enthusiasm while displaying many original shaker cheers.

Rifle, Camera Clubs Seek New Targets

Learning the fundamentals of safe and skilled shooting, boys and girls in the Rifle Club met to practice on Tuesday nights.

With the guns and targets, rented from the government, the club's beginners worked to master the handling of .22 caliber-target rifles; while experienced members began individual and team competition. The average score was sixty out of one hundred, but some shooters were able to hit as high as 90.

Membership in the club, sponsored by Mr. George Henderson, was open each semester. An indoor swimming party in January proved fun for the members; in the spring, they enjoyed an outdoor party and picnic.

Library, Home Ec Stress Organization

Aiding Miss Kathleen Curry, MHS librarian, throughout the year were the members of the Library club.

During their free hours, the group worked organizing books for the shelves and attractively arranging the display cases.

At the annual faculty tea honoring Book Week, teachers were able to scan the many newly-purchased books displayed in the library. Co-sponsoring an after-game dance, the club members raised enough money to contribute to "Share Joys, Buy Toys" and the foreign exchange student program.

With its sights on the future, the Home Economics club strived to teach girls about various phases of the domestic arts throughout worthwhile and enjoyable activities.

Sponsored by Miss Lela Adams, Miss Annette Bonnell, and Mrs. George Manus, the club served the school and community. Assisting the Line O'Type staff in the traditional "Share Joys, Buy Toys" campaign, the girls sold tags and helped deliver Christmas gifts to appreciative families. In conjunction with the D.E. class, they presented the "American Coed" fashion show with MHS girls as models. To improve their skill in cooking, each girl prepared a dish for a pot-luck supper and an all-club picnic later in the year.

Future Teachers of America planned various programs throughout the year to give its members a better picture of the teaching profession.

Guided by Miss Fern Slusher and Miss Freida Schnowske, they had the opportunity to consider future plans through activities such as cadet teaching. In this program, interested senior members assisted teachers in the kindergarten through sixth grades of the Moline school system. Applying some of their own teaching theories, six girls served as cadets in the first semester and eighteen, the second.

During American Education Week, the club set aside a day to honor Moline High school teachers, offering them coffee and doughnuts in the main office. In April, as thoughts turned to the future, the group participated in teaching career month.

Rendering service and exploring the numerous branches of health services, members of the Future Nurses Club experienced a successful year.

Most members of this club planned to enter some form of health work such as nursing, physical therapy, X-ray technician work, pharmacy, or dentistry. To acquaint them with the many possibilities for future education, a trip to the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago was taken. Throughout the school day, they assisted Mrs. Paul Henss, school nurse and club sponsor, in the health clinic.

Locally, forty girls from the club worked at Lutheran or Moline Public hospitals on Saturday mornings, aiding the nurses in simple duties such as feeding, talking with, and delivering mail to the patients. During the festive holiday season, they visited these same halls as Christmas carolers.

D.E., Red Cross Clubs Labor and Learn

Becoming acquainted with the working world, many Distributive Education Club members spent several hours a day as employees of local firms.

Two class periods each day, these students studied courses in business math, English, and retailing. Colorful window displays, an "Odds and Ends" sale, and the "American Coed" style show enhanced the group's program. Sponsoring them throughout the year was Miss Ruth Vertrees.

As it introduced its program for the first time, the High School Red Cross Council took firm hold in the lives of many MHS students.

"Volunteers" was the key word for the group's first year of service, as both boys and girls participated in hospital voluntary work, advertising, and entertainment. A cleverly-planned introductory assembly led to increased membership and the regular printing of an informative Red Cross newspaper, "Volunteers." Mrs. John Perry assisted the new club as faculty adviser.

Before leaving for their jobs are D.E. members: Kent Richenberg, Cecil Cady, Bob Sandberg, Tillie Rivera, Joan Scharer, Ilene Ferry, David Glasgow, Katherine Smith, Bill Roberts, Kay Davis, Dennis Whicker, Nancy Neff, Bill Riley, Rick Starr, Larry Frakes, Larry Engstrom, Hugh Nahrgang.

"My mother would never believe this," jokes D.E. student Rick Stahr as he neatly places a shirt on the display wall; while Bob Sandberg checks on the arrangement of several ties.

Delighted after the success of another meeting are officers of the new Red Cross Council: Gary Claerhout, assistant secretary; Chris Guerrero, treasurer; Paul Diehl, secretary; Pam Peterson, chairman; and Sandee Peterson, vice-chairman.

Fine Arts

Traditionally-fine MHS drama, music, and art add sparkle to our lives as the sun does to the river.

Years of Music, Laughter, and Tears

"All the world's a stage" has been the thought of many actors and actresses since the early plays which began the tradition of Fine Arts at MHS.

Beginning in the 1920's, musicians of the MHS band have played faithfully for countless high school activities.

Saluting the Moline Maroons, the 1936 band formed the traditional "M" on Browning Field.

Create Tradition of Fine Arts at MHS

The application of make-up has always been a prime component of the Fine Arts world as illustrated by Miss Barbara Garst and surrounding cast members.

From an old and stately theater on Third Avenue in 1913 to the spacious and modern beauty of the new MHS auditorium in 1962, the arts of MHS have established a fine tradition.

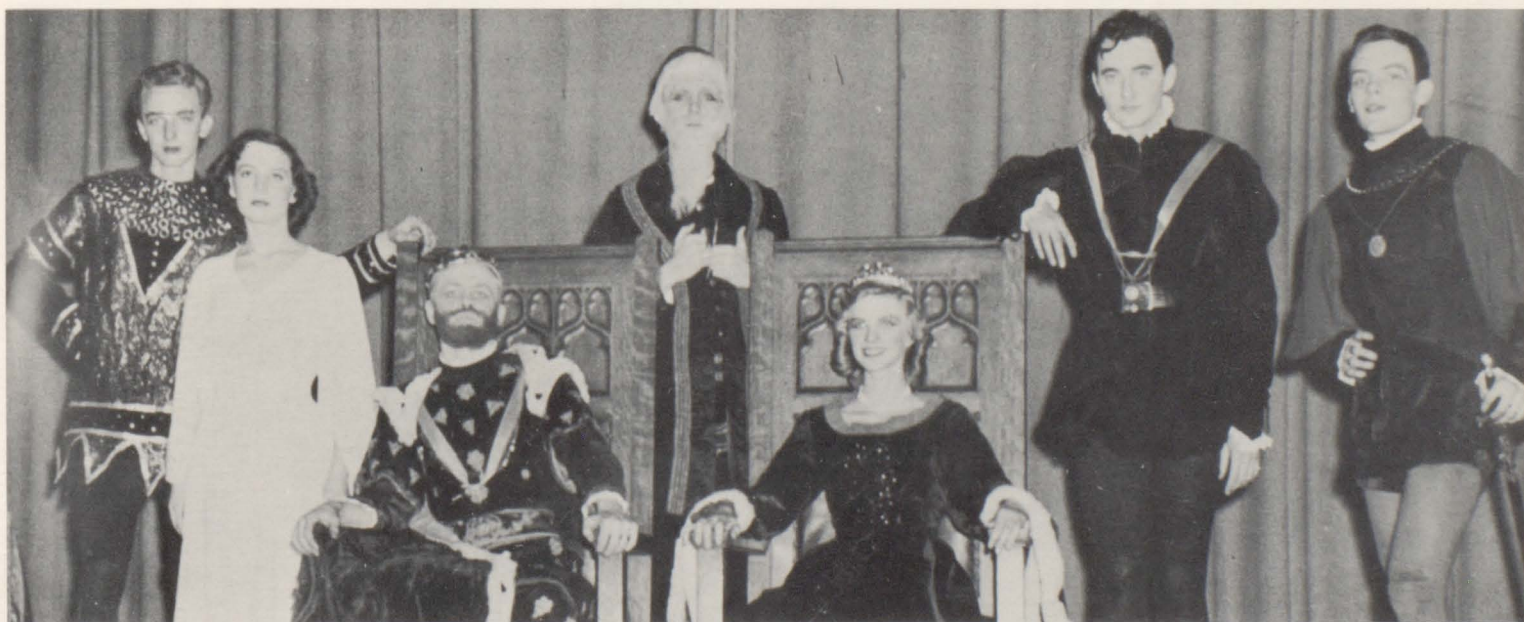

Presenting constant challenges to high school students, music, drama, dance, and art have shone throughout the years of Moline's "M." With the mixed sounds of instruments tuning up, lines being memorized, and routine rhythms being counted, the artists of MHS have practiced long and faithful hours. After making several starts, the band took hold in 1928 and, in the true spirit of MHS, has carried on loyally at Browning Field, Wharton Field House, and the school auditorium. The orchestra, too, has prospered as it has furnished music for the public events and Commencement of MHS.

For fifty years many excellent tragedies and comedies have been presented by aspiring MHS actors and actresses. Transforming an empty stage into the rural simplicity of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" or the deep, psychological drama of "The Glass Menagerie," they have entertained hundreds of audiences. Initiated by Miss Barbara Garst in 1942 with "Macbeth," Moline's unique Shakespearean tradition has been maintained faithfully, the last production being the lively and witty "Taming of the Shrew."

Vocal music, too, has added its harmonious strains to the artistic currents of MHS. Boys and girls glee clubs have expanded into numerous specialized groups; for example, in 1949, the Spanish and Scandinavian singers existed, adding an international flavor to MHS. Forming the Operetta Workshop in 1954, Miss Margaret Becker began a program destined to have many years of outstanding success. Audiences since then have seen this choir in the beauty and inspiration of the Christmas vespers as well as the bewitching, Scottish highlands of "Brigadoon"; the hilarious Sadey Hawkins days of "Li'l Abner"; and the fun filled factories of "Pajama Game."

Moline's Fine Arts, as they continue to add sparkle to many lives, have been enriched by the successes of the past fifty years.

In all the glory of elegant costumes and colorful scenery, Shakespearean drama has come alive at MHS in such productions as "Hamlet" in 1951. Students have learned, through diligence, to master the difficult but beautiful lines.

Fine Arts Club, an out-growth of the once-prominent Dramatics Club, thrived as its membership reached an all-time high.

Highlighting their '61-'62 plan of activities was an interesting program presented by Mr. Charles Gigante, conductor of the Tri-City Symphony orchestra, who enlightened the group on composers and performing artists. After this, club members were able to chat informally with this prominent musician. As spring approached, thoughts turned to plans for the annual awards breakfast, a unique idea at MHS. Through the presentation of the Fine Arts Award trophies at this time, six seniors were recognized for excellence in their respective areas of dramatics, art, instrumental music, stagecraft, and vocal music. Special honor was also given to Mr. Don Moeller, art instructor, for his creative sets throughout his many years at Moline High as scenery designer.

Amidst the excitement of the Graduation week-end, many Fine Arts Club members and National Thespians visited Chicago for a day to see Rodgers and Hammerstein's charming show, "The Sound of Music."

Deciding upon an appropriate first course for the Fine Arts Club breakfast, three of the club's officers enjoy a little fun. Phil Nissen, president, casts his vote for fruit cocktail; Pat Rives, secretary, favors the orange; while Tina Olsen, vice-president, shows her distaste for bananas. Thing." Mimi looks on in gleeful delight while Mrs. LaRue and Poison Eddie stare unbelievably at the sudden sentiment of the two mobsters.

"Mrs. McThing" Casts Spell of Fantasy

Mrs. McThing dolefully dreams of her daughter Mimi whom she will never see again; as the two nurse maids and Sybil, the house maid look on pensively.

From imaginative stick people and fantastic tales of witches came Mary Chase's world of "Mrs. Mc Thing", which was presented for MHS audiences October 19 and 20.

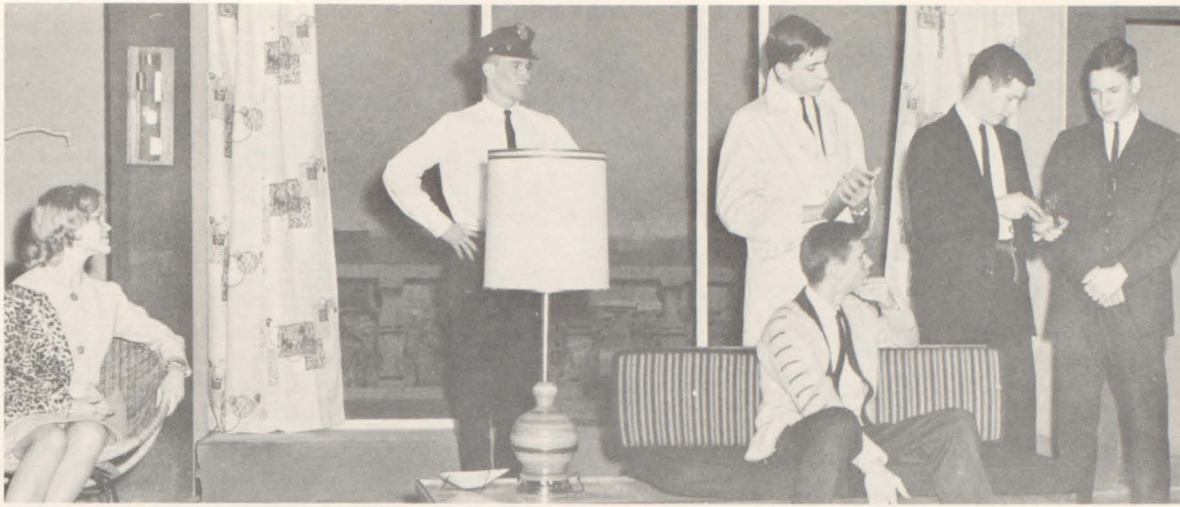

Mrs. LaRue (Karen Johnson), a wealthy widow, forbids her son Howay (Jack Petit) to play with Mimi (Ann Boaden), a ragged little girl who claims that her mother is a witch. Angered by Mrs. LaRue's snubbing, Mimi has her mother, Mrs. McThing (beautiful witch, Sylvia Nelson; ugly witch, Susan Drake), create a "stick" boy exactly like Howay to take his place.

Finding himself out in the cold, Howay wanders into the Shantyland Pool Hall where he makes friends with three gangsters, Poison Eddie (Eric Gustavson), Stinker (Mike Block), and Dirty Joe (Mel Piff) and later with Mimi, who has followed him there. Mrs. LaRue, realizing that the "stick" is not Howay, finds her real son in the poolhall. Mrs. LaRue finally becomes friends with Mimi, who then betrays her witch mother to help her new friends regain their home. Mrs. LaRue adopts Mimi, and at last the children can play together.

Untidy conditions horrify the pompous Lewis sisters, who inspect the Pool Hall lunchroom. Howay looks on, bewildered at the fact that they do not recognize him; as Virgil, the waiter, takes orders to Ellsworth, the chef.

Inspecting the tell-tale murder weapon are Detective-in-chief Jenkins and Dr. Wyner, police department ballistics expert. Elliott observes them nervously; while Druker, Jenkin's assistant, takes notes on the situation under the watchful and interested eyes of Nell and a policeman.

"The Gazebo" Gilds Golden Year at MHS

Delightful comedy and mystery appeared on the MHS stage February 22 and 24, in Alec Coppel's modern play, "The Gazebo."

To protect his reputation, playwright Elliott Nash (Jeff Carlson), who is being blackmailed, decides to shoot his blackmailer. The foundation for the Gazebo, an eighteenth-century garden house which his wife Nell (Sue Wycoff) has recently ordered, is to be the hiding place for the body.

Unknown to Elliott, the blackmailer is killed by Joe the Black and his accomplices Louie (Jeff Lundeen) and The Dook (Bob Hegstrom). Joe then walks into Elliott's trap while Louie and The Dook, who are waiting outside Elliott's home, leave upon hearing the gun shot.

Later they are arrested and reveal Elliott's guilt in Joe's murder. District Attorney Harlow Edison (Mel Piff), accompanies Detective Jenkins (Phil Nissen) and Dr. Wyner (Steve Ferrell) to question Elliott about the murder. The doctor discovers the body, observes that no bullet wound is present, and concludes that Joe must have died of a heart attack—thus clearing Elliott.

Louie and The Dook, accomplices of Joe the Black, menacingly threaten Elliott Nash for the key to the safety deposit box which holds $25,000 in blackmail money.

Elliott Nash stands in ready aim to fire at Harlow Edison in a staging of one of Nash's murder-mystery scripts. Studying the unaffected victim are Mr. Thorpe, Mrs. Chandler, and Nell Nash.

"Oooh! Don't do that!" screams Argon, the Imaginary Invalid, as his mischievous maid Toinette sneaks up from behind and douses his tender feet with piping hot water.

Moliere's classic comedy, "The Imaginary Invalid," came alive in all its whimsical fun and laughter November 30 and December 1.

Centering around the hypochondria of Argon (Larry Hultgren), the play proves very interesting. Throughout the story, Beline (Becky Hensley), the invalid's young second wife, schemes to obtain Argon's fortune and to cheat his daughters, Angelique (Barb Lambert) and Louison (Thursday, Bobbie Luther; Friday, Ann Boaden) out of their rightful inheritance.

As medical bills mount, Argon decides to marry Angelique to a promising young doctor, Thomas Diaforus (Thursday, Jack Petit; Friday, John Getz), but Angelique has other ideas; for she has fallen in love with Cleante (Jon Schiewe), a young musician. The comical maid Toinette (Tina Olson) knows both sides of the situation throughout the play and is able to engineer a happy ending by masquerading as a doctor, partially curing Argon's "-ism's" and persuading him to play dead to witness Beline's real intentions. After talking Argon into allowing the marriage of Cleante and his daughter Angelique on the premise that the musician will later become a doctor, Toinette succeeds in convincing her master to forget his supposed ailments and become a doctor himself.

Moliere's Delightful "Imaginary Invalid"

Mr. Arthur Krane, able MHS stage manager, assists Larry Hultgren with a slight costume problem between acts.

Unaware of their selfish motives to cheat Angelique out of her inheritance, Argon, clad in his habitual and somewhat humorous attire, earnestly discusses plans for his will with Monsieur De Bonnefoi, his notary, and Beline, the invalid's wife.

Thomas Diafoirus (John Getz), Monsieur Diafoirus, Monsieur Purgon, and Monsieur Fleurant offer their remedies for Argon's imaginary diseases of bradypepsia, dyspepsia, apepsia, lenteria, and dropsy. Argon, personifying the alternate title of the play, "The Hypochondriack," is easily convinced by the medical advice of these seventeenth-century physicians.

Moans, Groans at Whims of Comical Cast

Before the opening performance, director Mrs. Briley wishes her cast good luck and gives them a few final instructions.

Cleante, while posing as Angelique's music master, sings a spontaneous love duet with her. The deception works as the two express their deep love while leading Argon to believe that Cleante is merely his daughter's instructor.

"Hoist the curtain! Man the spotlight!" Supervised by stage manager Mr. Krane, the MHS stage crew readys itself to set sail on another Fine Arts production. Crewmen are Dave Watt, Earl Sundin, Dave Nelson, Dave Parkhurst, Tom Church, Dan Hayes, and Jack Petit.

Stage Entices Crew, Artists, Thespians

MHS art instructor Mr. Moeller, who received a special Fine Arts award for his years of service in set designing, perfects his plan for "The Gazebo" set.

Stage crews played one of the most important parts in all Fine Arts productions at MHS. Proper lighting, curtains, scenery changes, and sound effects all must be timed accurately—tasks which required constant attention throughout each performance.

Excellent background sets, created by the art department, enhanced many MHS productions by providing a realistic atmosphere for both the student performers and the audience. Enjoying every moment on the stage, Moline Thespians found fascination in all phases of this life—from the hectic last-minute preparation to the closing minutes of a successful performance. Membership in National Thespians, an honorary dramatic fraternity, is based on points gained through participation in various aspects of stage work.

Grease paint, glaring footlights, and spirited cast parties become almost second nature to the National Thespians throughout the year. Musical challenges presented themselves to Mr. Alonzo Seaboldt, new director, and his orchestra; as they experienced a rewarding year of practice and performance.

In addition to increasing the enjoyment and success of "Mrs. McThing" and "The Imaginary Invalid" with its intermission entertainment, the orchestra made regular appearances in "One Night of Melody" and "High Notes of Harmony." As an essential part in the production of Operetta Workshop's "The Pajama Game," these musicians helped make it one of the most popular shows in MHS history by providing accompaniment for solo, chorus, and dance numbers. The state music contest was another of the group's activities.

Surveying the vast depth of Moline High School's music library, Mr. Seaboldt and Mr. Partridge in their first year as MHS faculty, consider an interesting selection as a possibility for future musical productions.

"Crescendo!" say the expressive hands of Mr. Seaboldt as he leads his strings and woodwinds in the orchestra pit. On several occasions this group provided entertainment for audiences at MHS productions.

145-Piece MHS Band Blazes Brilliant

"Seventy-six trombones" lead the big Homecoming Parade as the MHS marching band proceeds smartly down Moline's Fifth Avenue, their brass instruments sparkling in the afternoon sun. Their lively collegiate tunes brightened the festivity of the annual parade, as they jubilantly ushered in the floats and forthcoming game.

Brilliant performances again led the MHS band, directed by Mr. Louis DiIulio, through a year of top musical productions.

Pleasing many MHS students and fans at this year's football games, the one hundred and forty-five piece band marched in precision time on Browning Field. Their ingenious routines and snappy musical arrangements provided half-time entertainment. Following the Mighty Maroons, the band traveled to several out-of-town games at the invitation of the host team. Basketball games saw the group contributing lively tunes to the bustling activity of the Wharton Field House.

Diligent practice brought high honors to these instrumental students at district and state competition; heralding spring, the band presented its annual concert for the public. At a year-end banquet, various band members received special awards for outstanding participation and work throughout the year.

Trail at Games, Assemblies, Contests

Plotting formations for half-time marches at the football games, the MHS band officers and their director get together before class. The officers are Bill Olsen, junior representative; Jack Hufford, treasurer; Barb Beckman, secretary; Rich Kauzlarich, president; Dave Hauman, vice-president; Mr. DiIulio, director; and Rick Erikson, senior representative. Sophomore representative for the band is Dave Smith.

In their new maroon and white performance outfits, the vivacious MHS majorettes form a stylish group. Ready for one of their many routines are Mary Durham, Carlann Korsmo, Pat Lumpkin, Sandy Slocum, captain; Joyce DeCoster, Nancy Needham, and Dianne Overturf. Outside of the football season, these girls are regular members of the concert band.

While discussing the theme for the ADC program, Miss Garst expressively shows that she feels committee chairmen Linda Carlson and Lew Sears are going overboard in their underwater theme. Mr. Roush, co-sponsor of the production with Miss Garst, comforts her initial fears and helps to convince her that the idea is plausible. The ADC Fellowship program is annually presented by the senior class.

Up and down and all around go Cheryl Johnson, Diane Jamieson, Carol Heeren, Sally Eastland, and Paula Carlson as they rehearse an act that shows how "The Twitch" is started by South Pacific aborigines and becomes a world-wide dance craze.

ADC Submerges; Dancers Stay High 'n Dry

the Christmas Vespers, these girls created impressive beauty in the traditional candlelight cross to "Ave Maria." Later in the year, after accompanying the Op Shop singers to exchange programs, they concluded their year by dancing with male partners in various routines as a part of the operetta, "The Pajama Game."

Performance time is near as the senior girls trio—Lana Jacobs, Linda Wilt, and Sylvia Nelson—and accompanist Pam Saunders gather in their eye-catching kelly green jumpers.

New Choral Groups Grace Music Programs

Continuing in the tradition of fine musical ensembles, Moline's vocal music department gained three new performing groups this year.

Madrigal Singers, fashioned after early English post-dinner singers, became the first group of its kind at Moline High. Members were selected from the Operetta Workshop on a tryout basis with Mr. James Partridge, new department head, directing the singers who presented sixteenth-century madrigal songs in their performances. A variety of outside engagements plus a part in "One Night of Melody" and district and state music contests gave this new ensemble many worthwhile experiences.

In early fall, the senior girls trio made its first appearance. Working on their own time, they prepared for school and community performances. The Boys Glee Club gave interested boys the chance to practice and perform together. Presenting assembly programs at each of the four Moline area junior high schools; they also sang at "High Notes of Harmony," with their numbers ranging from spirituals to barber shop melodies.

Bright, sunny tunes as well as serious and impressive melodies echoed from the music rooms throughout the day as seven choruses practiced for public performances.

Two girls' choruses and two mixed choruses were elective classes. In combined strength, they added colorful tunes to "One Night of Melody" in the fall and also sang at the annual Christmas Vespers. In these programs for the first time was the robed Concert Choir composed entirely of sophomores.

Operetta Workshop, the only MHS choir requiring auditions, appeared at the annual music department programs with other choruses. As exchange assemblies took hold, Op Shop, as it is commonly known, traveled to Alleman and Rock Island to present several numbers. In addition, soloists and ensembles represented Moline at the district contest with the entire choir joining to participate in state competition. The delightful factories of "The Pajama Game" set the scene for the operetta, while the solemnity of Baccalaureate and Commencement numbers gave a final farewell to the seniors.

"This one has a cool bass part," claims Eric Gustavson, president of Op Shop; as he and the other officers Phil Flesher, treasurer; Judy Hackerson, librarian; John Boyer, vice-president; Cheryl Westerdahl, librarian; and Linda Wilt, robe chairman, look over a number for commencement. Another officer, Pat Pearson, secretary, has already cast her vote for "Out of the Silence."

Rush! Rush! Rush! With the ever-present time-study man, Mr. Hines, harping at them to work faster, the girls in the Sleep-tite factory try to please Mr. Hasler with their part in "The Pajama Game." Hoping that their industrious work will impress the boss, they begin the battle for a 7½-cent raise.

Hernando's Hideaway, Sleep-tite Factory

"But boss, we're losing orders! They're intentionally making mistakes to get that raise!" exclaims Max, the traveling salesman. "Listen here! I'm a fighter, Max!" retorts Mr. Hasler while Mabel tries to take notes on the heated discussion.

"So long Pop, have a good run," comments Sid to Babe's father as he leaves for the railroad yards. With Pop gone the two find themselves alone and together for one of the few times since they met.

Amidst colorful pajamas and whirring sewing machines in the Sleep-tite factory, Operetta Workshop dancers and singers presented the Broadway hit musical, "The Pajama Game," April 5, 6, and 7.

Early in the show, president of the pajama workers union (Eric Gustavson) is convinced that the 7½-cent wage increase demand must be gained at all costs; while Mr. Hasler (Woodie Acord), president of the company, holds firm against the motion. Sid Sorokin (Jeff Lundeen), the new superintendent, soon discovers that he has moved into a rather hostile factory. Once pushing a lackadaisical worker, he is confronted by the grievance committee whose only member is a lively and attractive employee, Babe Williams (Donna Gillette). Sid and Babe fall in love immediately but, because of their occupations, cannot find time to be together.

Sid makes quite an impression on many of the female employees, such as Poopsie (Pam Saunders), Mae (Linda Wilt), Brenda (Eldreda Tunnick), and Mr. Hasler's pretty secretary, Gladys (Sandra Raby). Noticing this, Gladys's boyfriend, Mr. Hines, the time-study man (Jon Schiewe), becomes quite jealous and creates several pointless quarrels.

To obtain the raise, the union orders a slowdown. Suspicious of Mr. Hasler's reasons for refusing the raise, Sid persuades Gladys to loan him the key to the company ledger. From this he finds that the president has been deducting the employee's 7½ cents for himself. By threatening to make this information public, Sid convinces Mr. Hasler to grant the raise. Sleep-tite workers, celebrate their success at the popular Hernando's Hide-away, finally giving Sid and Babe the chance to be together.

"Picture this," sings Mabel as she gives her friend Hines an example of things that make people like him jealous of others. She hopes by this to test and perhaps cure him of his own jealous tendencies.

Lend Carefree Air to "The Pajama Game"

Meeting her on the way to the picnic, Prez plays up to another of many girls, giving Gladys the same old line, "Her is the cutest one!"

It is time for celebrating their "Once a Year Day" as the workers and even the boss enjoy the annual company picnic. Brenda, Mr. Hasler, Poopsie, Babe, Prez, and Mae join in the carefree fun of the day.

Athletics

Rugged practices, depressing defeats, and glorious victories help our athletes, as well as our fans, to learn that participation and performance are the source of life's streams of success.

The first year of the "M" saw middy blouses and bows the popular dress as girls' basketball teams competed for championship titles.

Since the days of no face guards and drab outfits, football has existed at MHS as the opportunity for many boys to participate in rugged competition.

Fifty Years of Athletic Honors Earn

Moline High School has been for fifty years the home of the Mighty Maroons; teams have sparkled and made MHS a respected name in sports throughout the Mississippi Valley and the rest of the state.

Moline boys, with determination and gruelling effort, have won hundreds of trophies to line the halls and show cases. As evidence of frequent visits to state contests, 1942 saw the Moline cagers earn a second in the "Sweet Sixteen" basketball tourney. Battling driving winds in May, 1960, the track boys won first place and brought home, for the first time, the coveted state championship trophy; while the swimmers made their mark in 1961, as they outpaced all other down state teams to place third in Illinois.

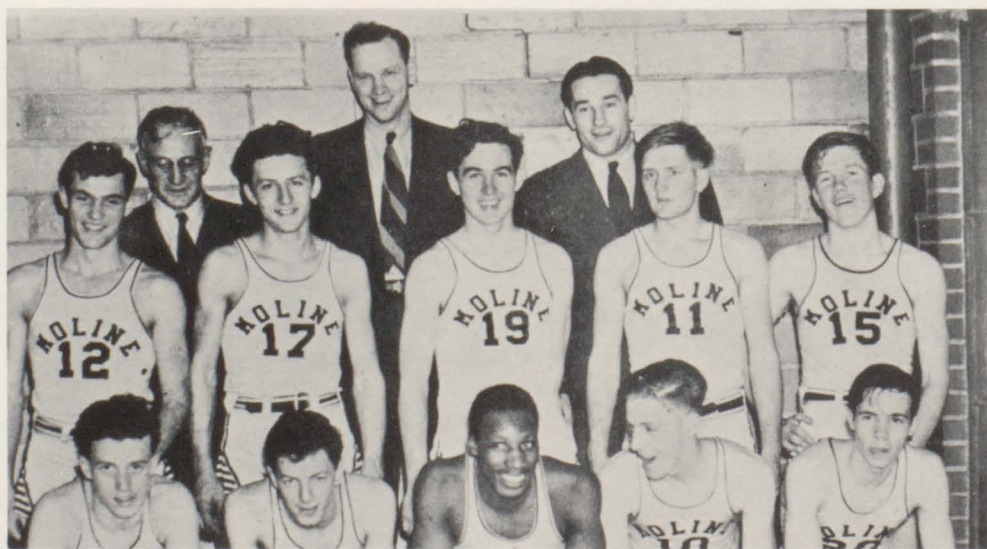

In addition to high ratings in state contests; these and other MHS teams have displayed outstanding performances to capture Quad-City, Valley, district, and regional crowns in all sports. Devoted coaches and managers such as C. W.

Holmgren and the late George Senneff have guided many MHS boys as athletics has changed through the years.

With growth and change, the need became evident in 1928 for an all-purpose field house. Thousands responded to the request for funds, and the project succeeded under the leadership of Mr. Holmgren, T. F. Wharton, and Dr. Perry Wessel. Out of need again, plans are in progress for a new football stadium to replace Browning Field, time-worn by the feet of thousands of sports men. One of the many remarkable boys whose feet pounded the dirt of this field is Flip Anders, '38, the "Moline Express," who is recognized as one of the best athletes ever at MHS; and one of the very few to earn all-state honors in three sports.

In the half century since the "M" began, the tradition of athletics has been strengthened as Moline continues to be the home of the Mighty Maroons.

Victory has often been reflected in the eyes of MHS teams such as this 1942 basketball squad which placed second in the state tourney.

Yell masters for many years led Moline fans in enthusiastic support of numerous Maroon teams.

Flip Anders '38, "Moline's Express," pounded the dirt of the Browning Field track and led Moline on to victory in track, football, and basketball.

Respect for Moline's Mighty Maroons

December 21, 1928, the Wharton Field House officially became the home of the Mighty Maroons as Moline crushed Kewanee 22-15. Jim Rosborough, '30, father of Jim Rosborough, '62, had the honor of making the first basket in this opening-night game.

Changes in athletics brought changes in the cheerleaders, also, as girls stepped into the spotlight at many athletic contests.

Cheerleaders Inspire Good Sportsmanship

Cold weather doesn't daunt the exuberant spirit of the varsity regulars Debby Westlin, Sandra Raby, Char Bjurstrom, Sally Eastland, and Pat Carlson.

Moline's cheerleaders brought another outstanding season to a close with their unceasing enthusiasm and pep.

Although supporting football and basketball games were their chief interest, swimming and wrestling meets were also on their agenda.

Varsity squad, consisting of Debby Westlin, Sally Eastland, Sandra Raby, and Char Bjurstrom, lost one of their teammates at the beginning of the basketball season. While sledding senior Pat Carlson broke her foot and was out of action for several months, but Pat still backed the team by following them by radio.

Gray vests and skirts with white blouses, which were a new addition to the girls' attire this year, were made by the girls themselves for traveling uniforms.

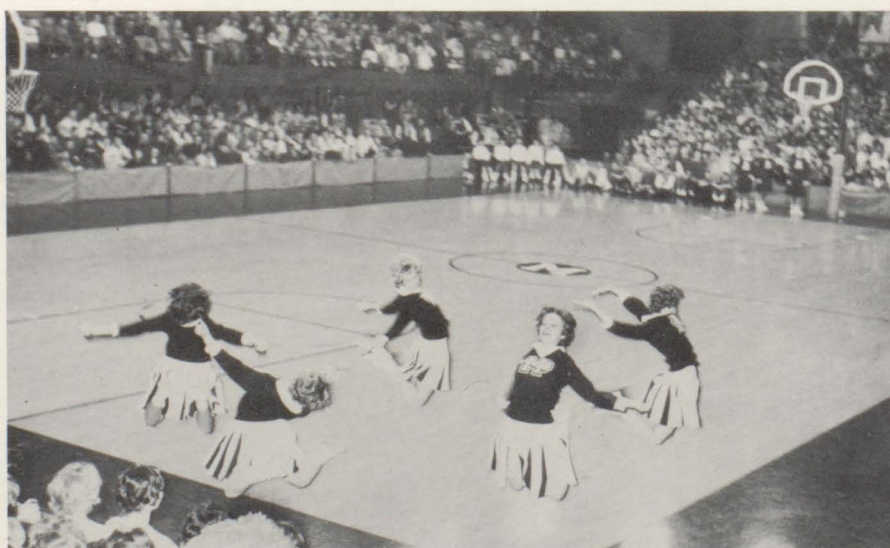

Representing the sophomore class were Jill Clymer, Barb Erickson, Nancy Flick, Vicky Knary, and Jan Marzorati who spirited the Little Maroons to victory at all the home games and many of the away games.

A humorous skit enacted by the cheerleaders before the traditional Moline-Rock Island game created much enthusiasm. Tina Olsen represented coach Jack Foley while the other pepsters strode on stage in the personages of the basketball team.

Moline's teams were also well supported by both the girls' and boys' pep club, who followed the cheerleaders in urging the teams to victorious seasons.

Hope mingles with enthusiasm in the Moline-Rock Island game as Sally Eastland and Margo Pynckel wait anxiously for the unpredictable outcome.

"We're from Moline couldn't be prouder!" exhibits the pride of the varsity cheerleaders for the victorious Maroons on their home court.

and Promote Team Spirit Among MHS Fans

Capably urging on the Moline swimming and wrestling teams to victory are sophomore alternates Cheryl Burich, Vicky Green, Nancy Bruch, Charyl Pobanz, and Kathy Powers.

"Yea, team, FIGHT!" echoes in the gym during the practice of one of the numerous routines of the varsity alternates Kaye Greim, Sally Verschorre, Bobby Jo Rosborough, Tina Olsen, and Margo Pynckel.

Spiriting the Little Maroons on the victory path are Nancy Flick, Jan Marzorati, Jill Clymer, Vicky Knary, and Barb Erickson.

Gridders Cop First Quad-City Title in

Head Coach Ken Funk completed an outstanding season, guiding the Maroons to the Quad-City Championship and second place in the Mississippi Valley.

Opening their season the Maroons eked out a narrow victory over Jefferson, 7-6. Improving rapidly, Moline shut out Rock Island, 18-0; their first victory over the Rocks in 10 years. Chalking up their third victory, the Maroons defeated Davenport West, 20-6. Losing to Iowa City, 20-6, the gridgers came back to defeat East Moline, 26-20, in their third successive homecoming victory. Playing one of their finest games of the season, the Maroons overpowered Davenport Central, 34-13, and went on to defeat Dubuque, 20-7, and Alleman, 14-7, before bowing to Washington, 14-0, in the final contest of the season.

Rated the most powerful Moline team of the decade, the Maroons finished the season with a brilliant 7-2 record. They were undefeated in Quad-City play.

At the annual banquet 42 major and minor letters and 7 manager letters were awarded. Outstanding players receiving recognition were honorary co-captains, Sid Anders and Jeff Lundeen who were also voted top defensive lineman and offensive back, respectively. Lundeen was also voted most valuable player. Andy Helgason was honored as top defensive back and Mike Romanowski received similar honors as offensive lineman.

Moline gridgers receiving all-conference recognition on the first team of the Mississippi Valley were Kai Anderson, Tom Herbert, and Lundeen, while honorable mention was accorded to Jim Cunningham and Mike Romanowski. Anderson, Herbert, and Lundeen were named to the all-state teams of the Associated Press and the Champaign Gazette, while Romanowski received honorable mention on the Associated Press team.

Reflecting pride in the 7-2 record of the 1961 Fighting Maroons are assistant coaches, Dick Lewis, John Heineke, "Whitey" Verstrate, and Head Coach, Ken Funk.

Managers Rich Baldwin, Ron Wildermuth, and Tom Nordquist apply ankle dressings as part of their daily duties to Norm Fry, a member of the varsity squad.

Fleet halfback, Jim Cunningham, struggles through mud and water on his favorite "Sallyrand left" play to gain additional Maroon yardage against Rock Island.

Soph Squad Accredited With 5 - 3 Season

Moline High school's sophomore gridiron squad completed their season November 10, compiling a record of 5 wins and 3 losses.

Under the direction of coaches Chuck Laws, Bill Baltzell, and Fritz Boom, the Little Maroons started the season strongly, although plagued with injuries, which continued to hurt them throughout the season.

Moline opened the season with two consecutive wins over Jefferson and Rock Island; the latter game was called at the half to preserve the playing field for the varsity, and the Little Maroons were credited with a 7-6 victory. Moline then played host to the Falcons of Davenport West and the gridgers added another notch to their victory belt. Traveling to Iowa City, Moline suffered its first defeat after a tough defensive battle. On Homecoming night the spirited Little Maroons fought a losing battle against their arch rivals, the East Moline Panthers. Moline then moved on to Davenport Central where they lost to the Blue Devils. The Dubuque Rams were the gridgers' next victims, and the Little Maroons held them scoreless. The Maroon sophomores wound up the season with a victory over the Washington Warriors by a forfeit.

Mike McDermott, halfback; Chris Swanson, end; and Dave Smith, guard; were cited for outstanding performances during the season at the annual Moline High school football banquet where twenty-three numerals were awarded to the gridgers.

Harriers Maintain Prominence in Valley

Keeping with the outstanding tradition of cross country running, the Moline harriers recorded another undefeated season this year. Mr. Gene Shipley, a veteran coach of nine years, directed the team to the championships in the Mississippi Valley, Quad-City, and District contests.

In the Valley Conference, Bob Wright captured first place with Dan Ferreira, second; Jim DeKeyzer, sixth; John Boyer, seventh; Louis Kerofsky, ninth; and Carl Dreon, twelfth. While the varsity was winning dual meets with Clinton, Davenport Central, Davenport West, and East Moline; the sophomore team was following the victory path. Both squads won the Mississippi Valley Conference mile run and the two-mile cross country. Adding to Moline's glory, sophomore Tony Paea was the individual winner for the

Climaxing this successful season, the Maroon distance men proceeded to the State meet where they secured sixth place. Setting the pace for the Moline runners was Wright, who captured eighth place; Ferreira took sixteenth and Paea, twenty-fifth. Other Moline finishers included Kerofsky, DeKeyzer, Boyer, and Dreon. Receiving major letters at the annual cross country banquet were: seniors, DeKeyzer, Ferreira, Kerofsky, and Wright; juniors, Boyer and Dreon; and sophomore, Paea. Coach Shipley was honored for the completion of his fifth consecutive undefeated season and the entire squad was recognized for its undaunted spirit in maintaining its prominence in Mississippi Valley, as well as state, competition.

Harrier Robert Wright, adds to Moline's score as he places first in the District.

Maroons Stagger Foes With 21-3 Season;

After grabbing a rebound from two players, forward Jim Rosborough shouts "Hands up!" and looks for a Moline guard.

This year Moline's versatile basketball team triumphed as one of the best in the history of MHS. Attaining a sensational season of 21 wins and three losses, the Moline Maroons also added the Mississippi Valley Conference and Quad-City Conference championships to their fine record. These victories left Head coach Jack Foley and Assistant coach Bill Bishop much to be proud of, and with an example of a coaching job well done.

As a well balanced team, the Maroons demonstrated their skill during the regular season. After a fast start with three wins over East Rockford, Dubuque, and Galesburg, Moline met difficulty. Unable to get rebounds the team fell victim to Davenport Central, 63-49 on Central's home floor. Being quick to recover the Maroons rapidly improved and placed themselves on the road to victory. They easily won the next seven games over such teams as Iowa City, East Moline, and Jefferson. Moline then met their arch-rival Rock Island at Rock Island which resulted in a victory for Moline after a close and exciting game. Moline again continued its victory string with a total of fourteen in a row by defeating Rock Island again as well as other teams that they had played earlier in the season. The Maroons traveled to Quincy finding the Blue Devils too much competition. Moline lost in a hard fought battle, 57-41. The following week Moline sprang back and beat a triggered Pekin team, 56-50. This ended the fine regular season for the Maroons.

Moline entered the Regional Tournament with an easy win over Orion in the first round. The tournament team then proved to be too much for the Geneseo Mapleleaves by shooting a hot sixty-two per cent. Putting the damper on things, the Rock Island Rocks took their long awaited revenge on the Maroons in Moline's final tournament game with a hard fought 45-36 win.

This season proved the team to be one of the most balanced in Moline's history. Many juniors shared the burdens with the seniors which will add experience to next year's team.

Sophs Share 2nd for Conference Crowns

"Not even a pair of chesty Rocks is going to stop me!" might be center Nick Stahl's thought as he eyes the basket during the Little Maroon victory.

Moline's sophomore basketball team ended their first year of high school competition with a fine record of 16 wins and 5 losses. In the Quad-City Conference, the sophs tied for the second place position with a 5 and 3 record and also earned a tie in the Mississippi Valley Conference for second place with 12 wins and 3 losses.

Led by Nick Stahl and Ron Herring, the squad began the season with ten consecutive victories under the able coaching of Mr. Al Stevens. However, a mid season slump dropped them from the ranks of the undefeated. Winning their last two games against highly ranked Quincy and Pekin, the spirited Little Maroons finished in fine fashion.

Along with Stahl and Herring, Coach Stevens used Mike Hall, Larry Dhabalt, and Tom Youngberg in his starting five. At the basketball banquet, Mr. Stevens announced that Stahl had been chosen as honorary team captain. Stahl and Hall were cited as the best rebounders in the respective order. Receiving the honor of the best fundamental player was Dhabalt. Larry was commended on his low number of game violations, on his good passes, and on his efficient ball handling.

Statistics showed that the team hit a respectable 39.9 percentage of their field goals and averaged a 56.2 percentage in free throw shooting. In individual scoring, Stahl averaged 12.5 points per game while Herring hit an average of 10.7 per contest.

Moline Turfmen Tally Successful Record

Upholding the fine record of 1960-61, this year's golf team tallied up 4 wins and 1 loss and added the Quad-City championship for a successful fall season.

Seven turfmen, under the able coaching of Jack Dye, comprised the team. They were: seniors, Jack Kelly and Jim Simon; juniors, Jon Heberling, Jim Hillbloom, Larry Peterson, and Jim Rose; and sophomore, Dave Georlett. Victorious twice at Indian Bluff, their home course, the boys also won in the Quad-City contests at Short Hills and Duck Creek. Their competitors in these matches were Davenport Central, Davenport West, East Moline, and Rock Island. Winning their first four contests, the team fell victim to Davenport Central at Emeis. Despite this setback, the Maroons earned the Quad-City title, September 26, with a team total 22 strokes below that of the second place team.

With this first crown of the season in their possession, the linksters rested their clubs until spring when they again experienced successful matches in local, Mississippi Valley, and District contests. May 21 marked the final exhibition—the State match at Savoy, near Champaign.

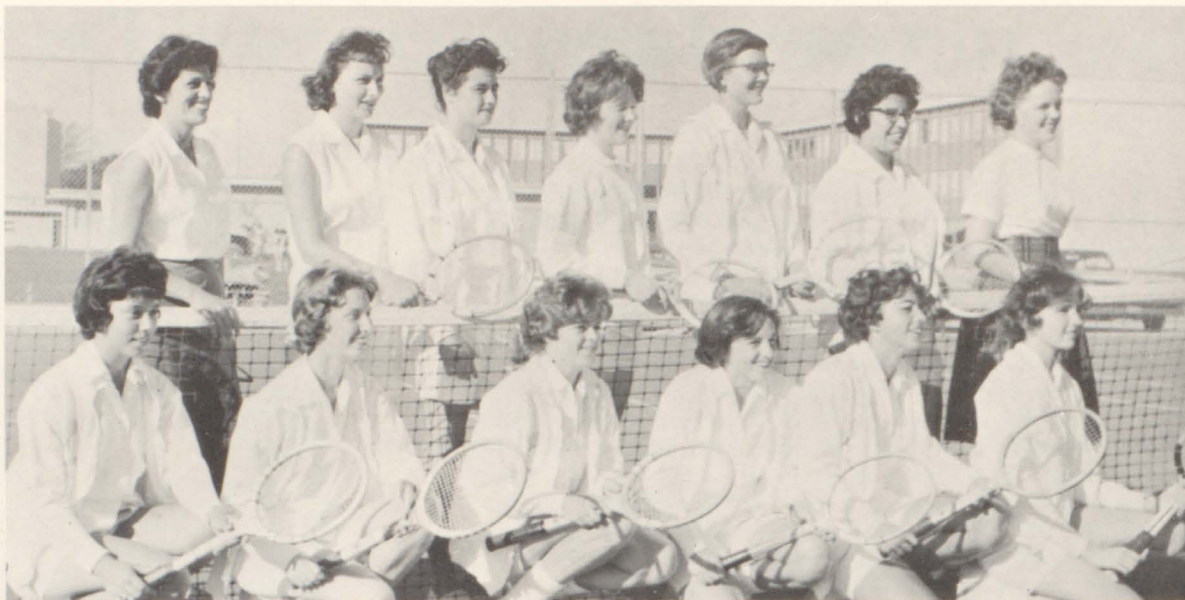

"It's on the green," is the expression revealed on Jim Simon's face as he makes a drive towards the team's District Championship.

Netsters Welcome Newcomers to Ranks;

Senior and underclassmen of the 1961 girls tennis team gained experience and confidence under the capable guidance of coach, Carol Coin, as they duelled with area opponents.

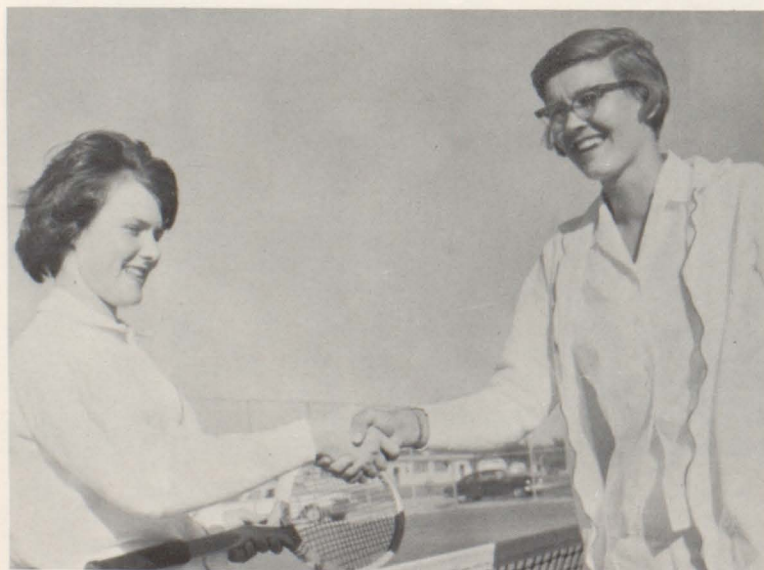

Although their season was not completely victorious, they learned many basic skills and helpful hints by playing. Quad-City competition was rugged again this year, and the Maroon lasses were victors in only one singles match. Leading the way, seniors Linda Anderson and foreign exchange student, Meg Holden, won the respect and admiration of Quad-City coaches with their remarkable playing ability.

Despite keen rivalry in the singles contest, Meg achieved second place in the number one position; while Linda copped the same rank in the number two position. In the doubles competition, juniors Kalomas and Evans finished in second place.

With many promising underclassmen filling the ranks this year, the netsters hope to invade Quad-City courts more successfully next year. In addition to Linda and Meg, Chris Guerrero represented the senior class. Underclassmen included juniors Rozella Evans, Kiki Kalomas, Mary Kay Pieper, Joyce Spiegel, Celia Stone, Shirley Stuart, Janell Vana, and Bonnie VanEckhouthe; with sophomores Carol Kramer, Kathy Mott, and Nancy Williams adding their support.

Foreign exchange student Meg Holden and Linda Anderson agree that sportsmanship and sunshine add the final touch to all tennis activities.

New Coach Sparks Effort in Racket Men

Working with a new coach, Mr. Al Stevens, Moline racket men displayed their finest sportsmanship and effort, compiling a season record of 2 wins and 6 losses. Both victories were 9-0 matches over Davenport West and resulted in the team's placing fourth in the Quad-City conference.

Besides their all-out team support, the Maroons revealed their individual strength in battling against rugged competition. In the Quad-City conference, Jack Hufford captured second place in the number one position while Don Burrough and Bill Case took second in the number six position for doubles competition with their accumulation of points.

This year's squad consisted primarily of hard-working veteran players and eager beginners. Seniors Steve Ahlstrand, Don Burrough, Jack Hufford, Chuck McChesney, Chuck Taylor, and Bob Willis were ably assisted by two juniors, Larry Case and Denny Jensen, who will be the core of next year's team. Preparing for the future were sophomores Tim Anderson, Dave Bloomquist, Bill Case, Dave Cooper, Dave Nelson, and Larry Watson, who promise a bright future for MHS tennis.

Undefeated in All Dual Starts, Tankers

Coaches John Heineke and Gary Morris proudly review the fabulous record of their 1961-1962 tankers.

Due to the outstanding performances of the entire team and the efforts of Coach Gary Morris and Assistant Coach John Heineke, the MHS tankers, undefeated in all dual meet starts, tallied the finest season record in Moline High School's history of swimming.

With the aid of a new time and score board, the Maroon swimmers opened their season with wins over Washington of Cedar Rapids, Central of Davenport, Peoria Richwood, West of Davenport, Clinton, and Burlington. In the next contest, the Clinton Relays, the tankers placed second. To add to their victory list, the Maroons swam by Rock Island, Washington, Central, Clinton, West, and Jefferson. In their next win, the swimmers brought state-wide attention to their powerful team by defeating highly rated Hinsdale in an important decision. Completing the regular season by outswimming Rock Island, the tankers became champions of both the Mississippi Valley and the Quad-City Conferences.

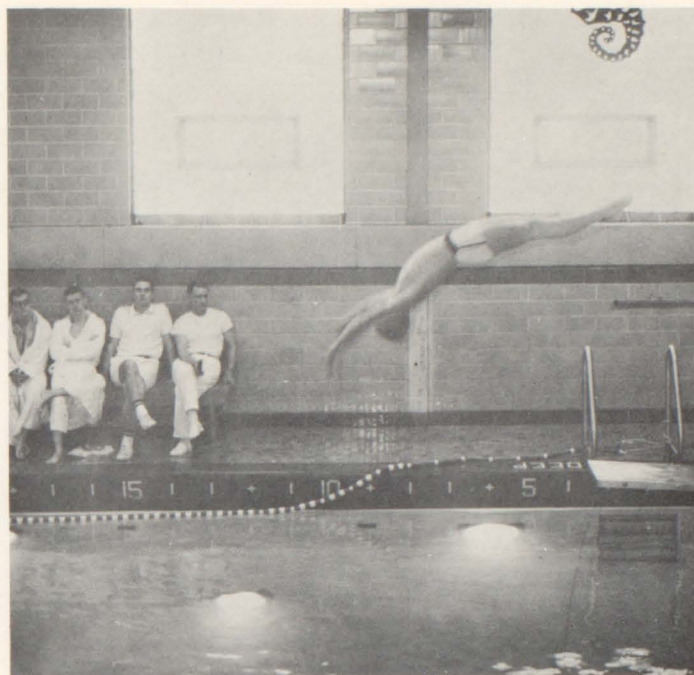

Competing in the District Meet at Rockford, the Maroons placed second under powerful East Rockford. In the climaxing State Meet, Moline's 200-yard freestyle relay team of Jay Capouch, Rees Orland, Bill Klingberg, and Ron Berry pushed Evanston to a new state record of 1:31.9 and placed second with a time of 1:32.2. The efforts of this quartet brought Moline fourth place honors.

Besides team recognition, Adey Tonnessen, Chuck Hoffman, Dick Grantz, Lew Sears, Mike Horst, Jim Pfetzing, Jack Lawless, Kent Mott, Capouch, Klingberg, Berry, and Orland qualified for the All Conference and All Quad-City teams.

Members of the junior varsity squad worked throughout the season to develop their swimming and diving skills in the hope of future varsity competition.

"Is this the kind of enthusiasm you want, coach?" jokes senior letterman Bill Klingberg as he practices on the starting blocks with his teammates Chuck Hoffman and Lew Sears.

All is quiet around the MHS pool as junior diver Bob Taylor floats through the air for a perfect back dive.

Wrestling Team Captures Fourth at State

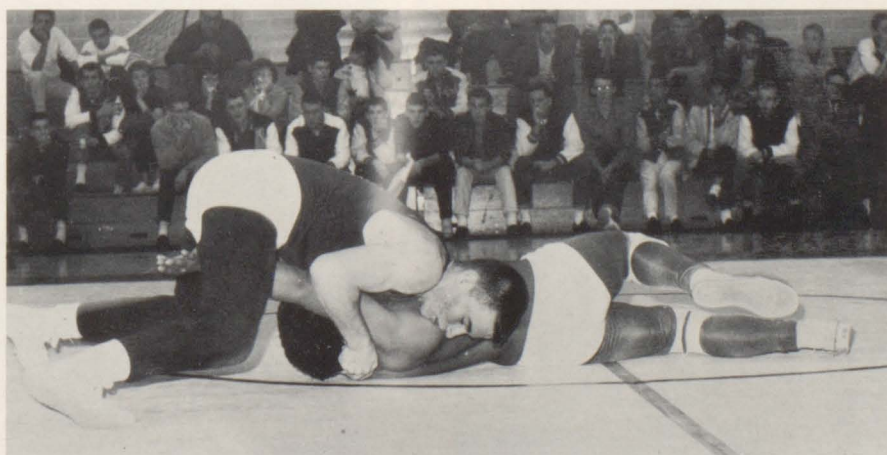

Duplicating the fine record of last year, Moline matmen finished their eventful dual meet season with 12 wins and 3 losses. Under the coaching of Mr. Joe Vavrus and Mr. Richard Lopez, the conditioned grapplers went on to capture the District and Sectional trophies and to qualify six members for state competition.

Moline opened its season with a smashing victory over Rock Island, Alleman, and East Moline in the quadrangular. In dual meet wrestling, Washington of Cedar Rapids became the first victim followed by Dubuque and West of Davenport. Davenport Central then broke up the winning streak by pinning down a close 23-21 win over the MHS grapplers. After a short-lived comeback with a victory over Dixon, the matmen bowed to Iowa City in another close mat decision. Moline's unlimited strength became evident with an impressive string of victories as the Maroons defeated Rock Island, East Moline, Galesburg, Rock Falls, Alleman, and Savanna. During the last meet, Jefferson broke the streak with a surprise win over the matmen. The Maroons finished fourth in the Mississippi Valley Conference and finished second in the Davenport Invitational.

First in the District and Sectional meets and fourth in the state highlighted the year for the grapplers. Of the many worthy letter winners Dick Head, Mike Doerr, Frank Ontiveros, Warren Fetter, Brian Lonstad, Mike Romanowski, Dan Jeffery, Andy Bodenbender, and Larry Stoever qualified for the sectional meet. Doerr, Jeffery, Romanowski, Ontiveros, Fetter, and Lonstad qualified for the state meet.

Adding to the accomplishments of the varsity matmen, members of the "B" team compiled an outstanding 8-1 season. Under the coaching of Mr. Chuck Laws, the sophomore team members alternated with the reserve team and wrestled more experienced juniors and seniors. Despite this disadvantage, they completed a respectable 5-6 record.

"Almost a pin," thinks Larry Stoever as he works diligently to pin his opponent, being careful of the opposing matman's hand at this crucial moment.

Smiling to show their pride in winning the sectional trophy are varsity regulars Dan Jeffery, Mike Romanowski, and Mike Doerr.

Endless Rugged Workouts Gain Area Honors

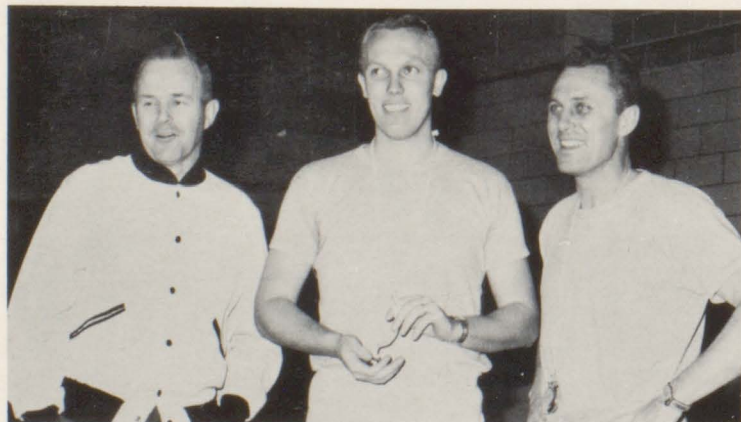

Returning with another fine track team, Coach Gene Shipley's cindermen began their '62 season March 31 at the Oak Park Indoor Relays. Because of bad weather the team was forced to hold its early workouts in the halls of the school. When the weather finally did clear they resumed practice at Browning Field.

Although many outstanding individuals were lost as '61 graduates, Moline featured a strong team with surprising depth in all events except the pole vault. The Maroons' coaching staff was enlarged with the addition of Mr. Tracy Woods, who handled the sprints and hurdles, and Mr. Gary Morris, who handled the jumping events. The weight men were coached by Mr. Jack Foley, while the distance men were managed by Head Coach Gene Shipley.

Mainstays throughout the successful year were Jeff Lundeen, Tom Herbert, and Dave Fisher, who threw the discus and the shotput; runners Jim Cunningham, Louie Ritchie, Bob Wright, Dan Ferriera, Louis Kerofsky, Jeff Miller, Mike Reed, Rees Orland, and John Boyer; hurdlers Jim Wilson, Glenn Lenox, Wes Johnson, Jim Rosborough, Ray Kelso, and Curt Knary; Sid Anders in high jump and broad jump, Sam DeMeyer and Andy Helgason, high jump. Adding strength to the team were Maurice Olson, Ed Davis, Carl Dreon, Jim Barnes, Jerry Haskins, and Tony Paea.

Optimistically discussing possibilities for this year's team are coaches Jack Foley, Tracy Woods, and Head Coach Gene Shipley.

Varsity trackman Glenn Lenox clears his last hurdle with perfect timing and form, required for all running events.

Variety Sparks Intramural Participation

Those participating in intramurals this year competed in a wide variety of sports: flag football, basketball, softball, ping pong, and bowling.

Starting off the intra-school sport season in the fall, Bill Moffitt's flag football team copped first place in the after-school competition. Four teams competed in the contests in which players grabbed the runner's flag to signify a tackle.

Again the highlight of the season was basketball. Twelve teams, a total of 100 boys, participated in the good-natured rivalry. Senior captains were Eric Gustavson, Andy Helgason, Jay Johnson, Alan Palmer, John Pappas, and Skip Wilkerson. Junior captains were Gary Seaman and Larry Case. Mike McDermott, Tim Anderson, and Gordon Kellett headed the sophomore teams. In the important tournament play in which the winners were awarded first place patches, Al Palmer's team emerged victorious.

To add to the interest of the game, jerseys were purchased and worn by the different teams. Also, games seemed more official with the use of the new scoreboard that was placed on the wall of the gymnasium.

Under the supervision of the hard-working sponsors, Mr. Tracy Woods and Mr. Fritz Boom, ping pong enthusiasts were not excluded from the year's activities. To meet the demand, a table tennis tournament was set up for the first time at MHS and will probably be continued next year.

Climaxing the season, bowling and softball tournaments met with the same active sportsmanship and participation, the goals of the intramural program.

Lettermen Guide Baseball Team; Batting

During batting practice, varsity pitcher Rich Kauzlarich awaits a sign from the catcher.

Senior Rick Shannon prepares to snag a "hot grounder" during a rugged warm-up.

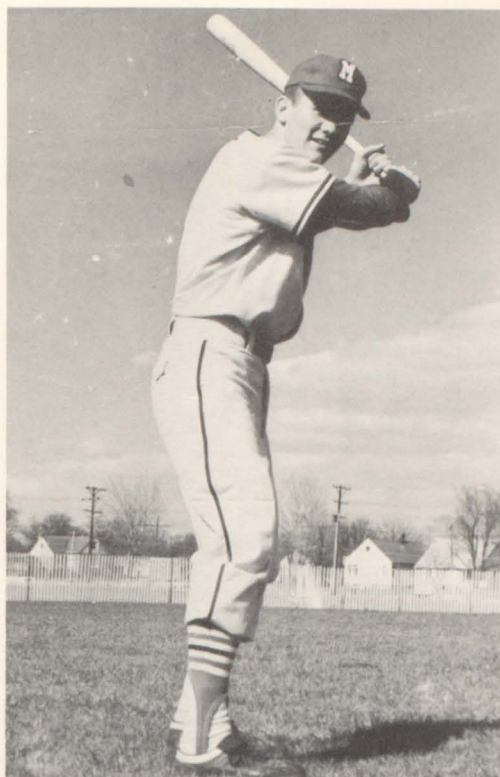

Holding practice in the Moline Community College gym, Moline's baseball team got off to a slow start and did not get into full swing until they were able to begin workouts in the MHS gym toward the end of March.

Head coach Bill Baltzell's Maroons began the season on March 31 with a doubleheader against Monmouth. Besides playing in the Mississippi Valley Conference, they also met stiff Illinois competition in the state baseball tournament during the end of May.

Aiding Mr. Baltzell was assistant coach "Whitey" Verstraete. Both coaches were pleased with the new pitching machine which helped to develop the batting eyes of the players.

This year's fine season centered around experienced players. They were Bill Moffitt, who played second base; Glenn Johnson and Jay Johnson, who played outfield with transfer student Bob Willis. Supporting these players were infielder Wayne Elias, first baseman Gary Miller, and utilityman Brian Olivier. The battery combinations were Mike Ries, Rick Shannon, Rich Kauzlarich, pitchers; and Rick Anderson, Ron Johnson, catchers.

Former assistant coach Bill Best took over head coaching duties of the underclassmen. Playing a somewhat similar schedule as the varsity team with the exception of the state tournament, the sophs attained a terrific record.

Second-baseman Bill Moffitt carefully checks his batting stance before the Monmouth game.

"Let's use a little of that teamwork with these uniforms!" exclaim managers Joe Wright, Gerald Carr, Larry Parker, and Ron Wildermuth after an MHS win.

Practices Aided by New Pitching Machine

At the half-way mark of a double header Head Coach Bill Baltzell briefs the Maroons and relates his strategy for the next game.

Loosening up, varsity outfielder Jay Johnson takes a level swing before leading off.

Advertising

Business and industry thrive in our beautiful Mississippi Valley, intent on serving the area consumers—young and old alike.

As the "M" began and grew at MHS, networks of trolley tracks and wires covered Moline—from the busy downtown streets to the sub-shopping areas on top of the hill. Some tracks, still embedded in old brick streets, remind Moliners of past days.

"M" Records Half Century of Progress

For many years, numerous businessmen such as attorney Andrew Kopp, chairman of the first "M" Board of Control in 1913, have occupied convenient offices in Moline's Reliance Building.

Since the horse and buggy days in Moline, area businessmen and industrialists have faithfully advertised in the MHS yearbook and helped to sustain an outstanding tradition.

Early years saw "M" ad solicitors diligently seeking buyers on the once-prominent Third Avenue as well as Fifth. Stores flourished on both and drew the carefree high school crowd. To relax after an exhausting day at school, many students patronized "Jerri's," a pleasant, neighborhood drugstore then at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Fifteenth Street. By 1918, Fifth Avenue had developed as Moline's business and shopping center, and Third had faded into the background. "Jerri's" and many other establishments soon disappeared and, with them old trolley tracks, wires, and street cars. When the Great Depression swept the country, many of these iron tracks were torn up for government salvage.

New York Store and Josephson's, "M" advertisers since 1913, continued, from Fifth Avenue, to serve Moline consumers. Dimock and Gould, the world-famous John Deere factories, and Williams White, which — from the original "M" until 1962 — have supported the "M," grew and prospered; while the Moline Daily Dispatch, moving from its Third Avenue office, showed a constant interest in advertising in the yearbook. Fifth Avenue has undergone inevitable changes. Since the day when it overpowered Third, new streetlights, cars, and parking meters have appeared. Not only downtown, but also uptown Moline firms have grown and expanded for the convenience of family shopping.

With a new span bridging the mighty Mississippi, progress and change in the Valley continue. Horses and buggies have vanished from Moline streets where the sweeping fins of 1962 cars now are seen; but, advertising, essential for the success of each "M," still has its source in both old and new businesses of this thriving community.

Today's bustling Fifth Avenue minus the "no turn" signs, one way traffic, parking meters, and new cars would equal this downtown scene of the 1930's.

As Moline Business and Industry Thrive

Rebuilt after a fire in 1919 destroyed it completely, the New York Store has served community shoppers from its home on Moline's main street.

Majestic in their perfect symmetry, the twin spans of the Suspension bridge between Iowa and Illinois speed commuters and travelers over the Mississippi River

Quo Vadis?

THE final echo of the old school bell signals far more than just the end of four years of diligent study. It is a fanfare, heralding an altogether new life in a competitive and demanding adult world.

The school has done a big job conditioning young minds for this moment. And, properly, these minds are eagerly receptive to the challenge. But there's more required than a mental reservoir of facts and figures and a willingness to apply them in a practical way.

There is another item that is every bit as important or perhaps more so. It is the human heart. For, it must still be acknowledged that it is the heart that can direct these other attributes in such a way as to add to mere material success the quality of satisfaction—a quality that comes from using knowledge and wisdom and skill not only to improve oneself but to make a better world for all who dwell in it.

Rightfully, then, it's proper to pause here and ask oneself, "Whither goest thou?" And then to choose the way that invites this unbeatable partnership of mind and heart.
